V's, Russians Set for Final

Canada Clobbers Germans; Soviet Whips Swiss 7-2

Canada 10, Germany 1
Russia 7, Switzerland 2
United States 6, Poland 2

COLOGNE (UP)—The Penticton V's went through their final "workout" prior to their climactic meeting with Russia by walloping Germany, 10-1, today for their seventh straight victory in the world hockey championships.

Meanwhile, at Krefeld, the defending champion Russians also swept to their seventh consecutive victory by beating Switzerland, 7-2. Canada and Russia both will take the day off Saturday, prior to their showdown on Sunday for the world title.

Jack McIntyre, Mike Shebaga and Jack McDonald each scored two goals to lead the Canadians, as the Warwick brothers took matters easy against the hapless home team.

A partisan crowd of 4,000 booed the V's at every opportunity and even cheered the two Russian referees who handled the match. The catcalls did little to stem the Canadian attack, which produced three goals in the first and third periods and four in the middle stanza.

REINFORCEMENTS SCORE

Grant Warwick was the only Warwick brother who scored today, with Jack Taggart and Jim Middleton, the two Canadian reinforcements, each contributing one. Doug Kilburn scored the other V's goal.

It took the V's nearly 11 minutes to score their first goal and that was somewhat of a fluke. McIntyre picked up a loose puck after it had bounced off three German defenders and slapped it home. Grant Warwick's screen shot found the nets at 13.40 and McDonald made it 3-0 on a pass from Dick less than one minute later.

Taggart added a Canadian goal in the fifth minute of the second period, just before Hermann Huber produced Germany's lone tally on a solo rush. The V's retaliated with a goal in less than two minutes and added two more before the period ended for a 7-1 lead.

The final period was a romp, just as so many previous Canadian triumphs in this tournament. Ivan McLelland had to make only 12 saves during the game.

SUMMARY

First Period—1, Canada, W. Warwick (G. Warwick), 13.20; 2, Canada, G. Warwick, 14.30; 3, Canada, Macdonald (R. Warwick), 17.35. Penalty: R. Warwick 14.02.

Second Period—4, Canada, Taggart (W. Warwick), 4.26; 5, Germany, Huber, 4.49; 6, Canada, McIntyre (McAvoy, G. Warwick), 5.26; 7, Canada, Shabaga (Middleton), 8.57; 8, Canada, Kilburn (McIntyre), 18.59. Penalties: Conway 5.10, McAvoy 11.02, R. Warwick 17.00.

Third Period—9, Canada, Macdonald (Tarala), 8.04; 10, Canada, Middleton (Tarala), 8.22; 11, Canada, Shabaga (Middleton), 19.50. Penalties: Middleton 2.10, Egan 7.18, Pittrich 10.15.

FINAL GAME STARTS AT 8, AIRED AT 12

Sunday's final game in the world hockey tournament between Penticton V's and Russia will be broadcast at 12 noon, as previously announced by the Times.

However, the actual starting time of the game is 8 a.m., Victoria time, and the play-by-play broadcast to be carried over the Trans-Canada network of the CBC will be delayed.

Foster Hewitt, Toronto's well-known commentator, will air the contest direct from Krefeld, Germany, scene of the game which will decide the world championship.

Vagueness About Quemoy Hurts Chiang

TAIPEI (UP)—A sneak attack by 40 Red Chinese gunboats and motorized junks attempted on Kaoteng Island in the Matsu group late this afternoon was beaten off in a 25-minute battle.

TAPEI (UP) — The Chinese Nationalist Government was under sharp attack by its lawmakers today for failing to win from U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles a clear pledge to help defend Quemoy, Matsu and other offshore islands.

Legislators criticized the Dulles statement on these islands as "very vague," and Deputy Premier Huang Shaokuo said "from our standpoint Quemoy, Kinnen and Matsu form an integral part of the Republic of China's territory. . . . These are the bases for launching our counter-attacks."

In the wake of Dulles' departure there was an atmosphere of gloom and fears were expressed that the offshore islands may be sacrificed in a cease-fire deal.

Cyclone Threatens

SYDNEY (Reuters) — A tropical cyclone moving toward the east Australian coast tonight threatened the state of New South Wales, just beginning to recover from its worst floods in history.

The weather bureau said the cyclone will cause heavy damage.

Drew Secretary Dies

OTTAWA (CP) — James F. Cassidy, 51, private secretary to Hon. George Drew for 19 years, died suddenly Thursday of a heart attack.

Faure Faces Crisis On Pay-Raise Issue

PARIS (UP) — The finance committee handed Premier Edgar Faure a setback by rejecting a pay-raise measure he had advocated.

Faure's new government faces its first serious parliamentary hurdle on the issue.

The committee refused by a 19 to 10 vote to approve the sum he had proposed for pay raises to the politically-strong civil servants. The committee described the sum as insufficient.

GROUND POPPING OPEN

Fiery Lava Runs Wild; Doomed Village Cleared

PAHOA, Hawaii (AP) — Twenty square miles of the volcano-wracked Puna district was evacuated hurriedly on Thursday night when the earth began popping open like a lot of punctured balloons.

Police said "everyone got out" of the area which encircles the abandoned and possibly doomed Kapoho village.

The area, shaken by earthquakes and splattered by spouting lava since Monday, began exploding open again Thursday night. It was clear of humans in two hours.

No one is being allowed to re-enter the area.

Richard Lyman, one of the Kapoho village officials who beat a hasty retreat, said "we were standing on a powder keg."

An hour before the countryside split asunder a livid glow lit up the night sky. Molten fountains fed the steaming river of lava, 10 feet deep and 300 yards across, as it inched with increasing momentum toward the ocean.

NEW ASPECT ON KAISER DAM DEA

Ottawa Surveyors Find Way To Join Columbia, Fraser Rivers

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Engineers have found gaps and passes which will make it physically possible to divert water from the upper Columbia River into the Fraser River system in British Columbia, it was learned here Friday from informed sources.

The preliminary engineering studies have disclosed that it will be possible to divert flood flows of the Columbia River above Revelstoke down the Eagle River, through Shuswap Lake and South Thompson River to join the Fraser River at Lytton.

The findings of these studies are reported to be the "remarkable new information on Columbia River development" referred to by Gen. A. G. MacNaughton, chairman of the International Joint Commission in his request to the British Columbia government to hold up the Kaiser dam deal.

Gen. MacNaughton is scheduled to make a detailed report on the results of the engineering studies to the parliamentary committee on external affairs next Wednesday. (See story on Page 2 about B.C. attendance at this committee's hearings on Ottawa's new water-export legislation.)

Source close to the International Joint Commission said here that the report by Gen. MacNaughton is of vital importance for British Columbia. It is estimated that several billion kilowatt hours of additional power could be produced annually as a result of such a diversion. Decision to make the diversion will depend upon the final findings of an economic survey due to be undertaken this summer.

3-Fingered Man Freed as Suspect

TORONTO (BUP) — Police hunting for an eight-year-old girl missing for a week said today a mysterious, three-fingered man believed to have been seen with her had been found and cleared of suspicion.

It turned out that the suspect did have two fingers missing from one hand, and freely admitted eating out with a child. But she was his daughter and looked nothing like missing Judy Carter.

Negro Pays With Life For 5-Cent Robbery

PARCHMAN, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's new lethal gas chamber claims its second victim today when Allen Donaldson, a Louisana Negro, is executed for robbing a white woman.

Donaldson beat the woman and fled with her purse. It contained one nickel.

The woman recovered.

VICTORIA STUDENTS are playing important roles in planning the University of British Columbia's "Open House," set for Saturday on the Vancouver campus. Student committee members include Allan Thackray, left, 2358 Heron, traffic chairman; Francis Appleton, 2149 Lansdowne Road, secretary, and Walter Young, 2527 Thompson Avenue, vice-chairman.

Victorians Rank High On UBC Honors List

(This is University Week in British Columbia. It will close on Saturday with an "open house" at the big, sprawling campus on Point Grey outside Vancouver. Because of the importance in our provincial life of the university, with which Victoria College is allied, the Times sent reporter Ab Kent to Vancouver to do a series telling what it means to us. Kent is himself a UBC graduate. His third article today tells of Victoria and Vancouver Island's part in life at the university.

By AB KENT, Times Staff Reporter

Victoria and Vancouver Island can be proud of the part they play in life at the University of British Columbia, whose enrollment is swelled by nearly 600 students—10 per cent of the 5,800 total—listing Island points as their homes.

Victorians alone make up half of these and include 25 graduates of Victoria College, the only B.C. institute of higher learning apart from UBC, with which it is affiliated.

The pride should go deeper than that, however, for scholastically speaking, Vancouver Island and Victoria College have produced some of the recognized educators and leaders of today through advanced training at UBC.

City Man, 64, Fatally Hurt Crossing Street

Second Traffic Death of Year

Inquest into the death of a 64-year-old city man fatally injured Thursday night when struck by a car while crossing Hillside Avenue has been set for Monday at 10.30 a.m. at McCall Bros. Funeral Parlor.

Dead is William H. S. Glew, 64, of 1501 Oakland Avenue.

Mr. Glew was hit while crossing Hillside east of Gosworth shortly after 7.30 p.m. He was pronounced dead at Royal Jubilee Hospital at about 8 p.m.

W. H. S. Glew

City police identified driver of the car as Robert John Bull, 18-year-old former car jockey, who resides at 728 Pine Street.

Mr. Glew is the second traffic fatality recorded in the city this year and the third in the Greater Victoria area.

First city traffic victim was John T. Gawthrop, 60, 1115 Leonard Street. He died four days after an accident January 12 at Hillside and Blackwood Streets.

James Matthew Lamont, 20, of 545 Agnes, was killed in a car crash January 9 at the intersection of Jedburgh Road and the old Island Highway in View Royal.

Police said Bull was driving east on Hillside when the Thursday night accident occurred. Mr. Glew, they said, was crossing Hillside from north to south on his way to a

Mid-20's Overnight; High 30's Saturday

A burst of warm air from the Pacific Ocean is slated to drive "winter" back to the mainland on the week-end, weatherman William Mackie forecast today.

Although the spell of Arctic weather was short, it succeeded in establishing an all-time low temperature for March. The mercury dropped to 19.3 degrees overnight, Mr. Mackie said, to eclipse the previous March low of 21.2 degrees, set in 1906.

First sign of the impending warm weather will be increasing cloud tonight that will keep temperatures in the mid-20s. It will be followed by more cloud and rising temperatures Saturday, and the strong likelihood of wet snow and rain Sunday, especially at higher levels.

38 SATURDAY

Mid-morning temperature today was 26 degrees, despite brilliant sunshine, and the expected high Saturday will be 38 to 40 degrees.

The expected warm weather will be a boon to local daffodil growers, who now are close to missing the Easter demand in Canada's eastern markets.

"Even now we will need a record warm spell if we are to catch the market 100 per cent," said William Mattick, well-known Cordova Bay grower. "The bulk of our sale is in the week prior to Easter, and we were picking at this time last year."

The annual daffodil "crop" amounts to about 500,000 to 600,000 dozen, Mr. Mattick said.

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia registered some of the lowest temperatures in Canada overnight as the province froze under the lowest March readings in its history.

Coldest was 70-mile House in the Cariboo district, which registered 40 below. Quesnel, in the same area, recorded 36 below. Prince George, farther north, was next with a reading of minus 34.

In Vancouver, the red line dropped to 14.9 degrees above in official thermometers, slightly below the previous low for the month—15 above zero, set March 10, 1951.

Unofficial readings taken in outlying districts went as low as nine above.

The Peace River town of Fort St. John was doubly hit when natural gas service failed during the winter's worst cold snap.

Upper Campbell To Be Dammed

The B.C. Power Commission was authorized to start construction of a $19,000,000 hydro-electric dam on Upper Campbell Lake.

The announcement was made in the Legislature this afternoon by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

The project will be completed in two stages.

City Navy PO Did Not Know Drink Contents

HALIFAX (CP)—A petty officer admitted at his court martial today that he drank poisoned duplicating machine fluid aboard the carrier Magnificent, Jan. 31, but said he thought it was surgical alcohol.

Taking the stand in his own defense, PO, Maynard Johnson of Victoria, said also that he gave a drink to a messmate but wouldn't have if he had known its contents.

Johnson is being tried on two charges: That he drank an intoxicant aboard ship and that he furnished a drink to another sailor, thereby causing illness.

The court martial, the second as a result of the poison punch drinking spree that sent 47 men to hospital, adjourned until later today to hear the summing up of the judge advocate, who was to review the law and evidence for the benefit of the court.

Some of the men were in danger of death or permanent injury for a time but all recovered. (See story page 6.)

2 Vancouver Skidroad Killings; Teener Stabbed; More Stick-Ups

VANCOUVER (CP) — One man was charged with murder today and four others were held following two overnight killings in the skid road area here.

Violence flared in a new upsurge of crime as a 15-year-old boy was stabbed and four teenagers and two gunmen staged holdups.

M. Lizotte, 27-year-old unemployed logger, died in an east end hotel after he was slashed in the neck with a broken wine bottle. Charged with his murder is Joseph Roy, 32, unemployed stonecutter. Two other men are held as material witnesses.

Two suspects were detained for investigation after a man plunged three stories down the stairwell of a rooming house in the same area. The victim, about 35, died soon after admittance to hospital.

HEARD LOUD ARGUMENT

Tenants told police they heard a loud argument and scuffling in the hallway before the fall.

Police said a 29-year-old painter and a 44-year-old seaman whom they arrested appeared intoxicated and were given a drunkometer test.

A 15-year-old boy was treated for knife wounds in the thigh early today. He told police he got into an argument with three other youths, all about 16, and one attacked him with a spring knife.

CROSSWORDERS SIGHT ON TARGET OF $400

Total prize for The Times Crossword Puzzle No. 102 climbs to $400 this week since no correct entry was received for Puzzle No. 101.

"Sires" was one word that stumped most entrants last week. The clue said "Some well-known sportsmen in current sport may possibly favor certain ——— over others."

Most contestants gave "sizes" or "sides" as the answer. But the clue said "may possibly" and sportsmen will most certainly favor certain sides over others in various team sports. However, only those interested in horse racing or breeding will interest themselves in "sires" which fits the clue "may possibly."

Complete answer to Puzzle No. 101 with this week's Puzzle No. 102 appears today on Page 22.

First Contract Let On New Marpole Span

A $3,450,482 contract was let today for construction of the sub-structure of a new Marpole bridge, a four-lane span across the North Arm of the Fraser River.

Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi said the B.C. Toll Authority has accepted the tender of Gilpin Construction Co., and work will start immediately.

A separate contract will be let for the super-structure.

Construction is expected to take two years.

Total cost of the long-awaited span is expected to be about $8,000,000.

"I'm hoping the old bridge will hang together until we finish the new bridge," Mr. Gaglardi said.

OAK STREET

The bridge will cross the Fraser at the foot of Oak Street, across to Lulu Island. A second bridge is planned between Lulu Island and Sea Island, on which the airport is based.

It will be a toll bridge, unless the federal government and Vancouver city change their minds and decide to contribute one-third of the total expenditure.

LADNER, B.C. (CP) — The provincial government is expecting a report "within a few days" on a proposed tunnel under the South Arm of the Fraser River, Einar Gunderson said here.

Mr. Gunderson, financial adviser to the Social Credit government and former B.C. finance minister, delivered the message from Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi to the Lower Fraser River Crossing Improvement Association annual dinner.

The report, he said, was being prepared by some of North America's top tunnel engineers.

"The government isn't fooling about the proposed tunnel."

Unemployment Policy Just 'Hope and Grope' George Hees Charges

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

Government handling of the unemployment situation was described Thursday as a "national disgrace."

George Hees (PC-Toronto-Broadview) said the cabinet has delivered a lot of pious platitudes but has shown it intends to do absolutely nothing about the situation.

He spoke during the third day of debate on unemployment. At one point during the sitting, only 35 of the 264 Commons members were in the chamber.

Mr. Hees, also national president of the Progressive Conservative Association, said the government is trying to "slide through on the old Liberal policy of hope and grope." It ignored thousands of Canadians who were without jobs. Many were in a desperate position.

He said a Toronto delegation which visited Ottawa recently seeking federal help for relief of unemployed persons received from the cabinet nothing but "gobbledegook."

He said "Jumping Jack" Immigration Minister Pickersgill was not present at the meeting because he was home nursing a wounded ego suffered in an immigration debate.

Build Up Secondary Industries

The permanent solution for unemployment lay in building up secondary industries so they could process more Canadian primary products in Canada.

Bert Leboe (SC—Cariboo) told of projects undertaken by the British Columbia Social Credit government to relieve unemployment.

A "sane and sound" federal financial policy was needed to come to grips with unemployment.

Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) said that 20 years ago 600,000 unemployed would have been a major disaster. The government should further extend unemployment insurance benefits, start a program of public works and try to raise farm income.

At the night sitting, Thomas Barnett (CCF, Comox-Alberni) said the government should forget they are 19th century Liberals and move into the 20th century. Some over-all planning and control was necessary to lick unemployment.

George Hahn (SC, New Westminster) urged the government to place more purchasing power in the hands of Canadians by tax reductions and increases in old-age pensions and other welfare payments. Unemployment was a federal responsibility.

Michael Starr (PC, Ontario), a former mayor of Oshawa, said it is only a matter of time before municipalities start going bankrupt from paying relief to jobless, as they did in the 1930s.

Canada's new Criminal Code will come into effect April 1 and this date will be written into the legislation.

Speaker Rene Beaudoin Thursday requested clarification of a newspaper report quoting John Diefenbaker as saying, while referring at an Ottawa luncheon meeting to a ruling by the Speaker, that Feb. 28 was a "black-letter day" in Parliament's history.

The matter, raised at the start of the day's sitting, produced tension so electric that you could have almost heard a pin drop in the plush-carpeted chamber.

It ended with Mr. Beaudoin accepting Mr. Difenbaker's statement—"spontaneously and from the heart"—that he had intended nothing derogatory and deeply regretted Mr. Beaudoin should have thought it was a personal reference. He had "deep respect, deep regard and deep appreciation" for Mr. Beaudoin.

213,937 Russ Vote Against Government

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet government and Communist party leaders—including former premier Georgi Malenkov—were returned to seats in the Supreme Soviets parliaments of 11 Russian republics, election returns showed today.

Party candidates piled up their usual 99-plus per cent majorities in the balloting, held Sunday. But a total of 213,937 persons voted against them.

Premier Sends Bonner, Sommers To Ottawa on Power Discussion

Premier Bennett will send his two top lieutenants to Ottawa to lay B.C.'s case on the Kaiser dam before the House of Commons committee on external affairs.

The premier, in a surprise announcement made in the Legislature Thursday, said Lands Minister R. E. Sommers and Attorney-General Robert Bonner will go east to appear before the committee.

His action follows the arrival in Victoria Wednesday of a telegram from committee chairman L. Phillipe Picard, inviting provincial representation in discussion of the International Rivers Act.

The act will give the federal administration power to block the Kaiser dam, by requiring a federal permit on all dams on rivers crossing the international boundary.

APRIL 6?

Premier Bennett suggested April 6 as the date for the appearance of his two cabinet ministers in Ottawa. He also said "certain technical advisers" will accompany them.

Although all provincial governments have been invited to appear before the committee, to make known their views on the internation rivers bill, the Kaiser dam issue is expected to hold the spotlight.

The B.C. government is adamant the deal go ahead on schedule, while Ottawa officials have condemned it. They said the province is selling its water resources for "peanuts."

Under the B.C. government's deal with the U.S. Kaiser aluminum interests, B.C. will get 20 per cent of the power generated in U.S. hydro-electric plants from the water stored behind a $30,000,000 dam on the Columbia River near Castlegar.

Total returns to B.C. will be in the neighborhood of $1,600,000 annually under the most recent proposal, under which the government would construct the dam, and collect interest from Kaiser, as well as the power.

Council was told unofficially that the estimates as submitted showed an increase of 10 per cent over last year.

HOW TOOTH DECAY OCCURS! HOW IT MAY BE PREVENTED!

by Amm-i-dent Ammoniated Toothpaste

New, improved Amm-i-dent Toothpaste has this decay-fighting action because of its exclusive ammoniated formula

PROTECTS YOUR TEETH from DECAY, BETTER and LONGER than any other toothpaste

WE GUARANTEE IT...OR MONEY BACK!*

Yes, here is a revolutionary toothpaste. Amm-i-dent's time-proved ammoniated formula (U.S. Patent No. 2,588,324) is backed by hundreds of clinical records on prevention of tooth decay. The most effective decay-fighting formula known is yours just by asking for "Amm-i-dent Toothpaste".

Every brushing with this new Amm-i-dent is guaranteed to prevent decay better . . . and to protect your teeth longer.

How Test Was Conducted

Container on left was filled with acid present in 9 out of 10 mouths . . . acid released when food particles ferment between the teeth. When this acid attacks tooth enamel, it can cause decay.

In container on the right, new Amm-i-dent was added to the same decay acid. Photos show what happened (in speeded-up test) when both solutions dripped on teeth.

After just 7 days, the unprotected tooth was greatly eaten away! But the tooth protected by Amm-i-dent showed no decay at all!

The use of Amm-i-dent can prevent decay . . . because improved Amm-i-dent literally destroys the decay acid before damage is done!

*If not delighted with results, return unused portion for full refund.

Webster Asks Charity Appeals Be Co-Ordinated

By TONY DICKASON

A direct answer to the mounting threat of bureaucratic control by government was given in the Legislature Thursday by Opposition Leader Arnold Webster, a kindly, keen-minded school teacher who brings much of his unruffled schoolroom manner to the House.

He urges an increased partnership between government and private groups in welfare administration. As the matter now stands, he says, there is a great lack of co-ordination in, for example, the care of children. Large sums are collected for such establishments as the Solarium, and the school for deaf and blind.

With collections made by public-spirited citizens for the several charities, "one wonders if they overlap."

His suggestion is that the government consider forming a committee to co-ordinate the collecting organizations. At present it's confusing.

There is also a need to "tie together" public and private welfare agencies. People in real want should not be dependent solely on assistance by private charitable organizations. The situation should not be left to the "hat passers" alone, thus the necessity of working out a joint scheme for charities.

"Pioneer new fields of warfare," he challenges.

Wide Field for Individual Effort

In the field of charity there is a wide horizon for individuals to view, a field in which they can work without pay. An excellent example of this is the community centres in which a partnership of civic and voluntary efforts exist.

Objective, he maintains, is to seek a reasonable balance so the tangle of a multiplicity of appeals doesn't exist on one hand, with a straight-laced unbending bureaucracy on the other.

Health Minister Eric Martin, whose $29,000,000 estimates for the fiscal year are being studied in the House, said he was glad Mr. Webster felt as he did. Voluntary agencies are of the "utmost importance" and doing a tremendous service and the government is doing its best to encourage these services in every way.

He listed a few of many groups—Cerebral Palsy, Red Cross, Cancer Institute . . .

Mr. Webster asks that the government consider ways and means of training physio therapists for B.C., as there is an expanding conception of the meaning of "rehabilitation." This need will mount, he suggests, and the province could find itself short of these people. Training of physiotherapists is scanty in Canada—there are only three centres—but if B.C. helped financially, more young people could go to the centres for training and return here to practise.

Veterinarians are now trained in this manner.

Rare Statement From Giovando

A comparatively rare statement by a doctor was heard from Dr. Larry Giovando, Independent for Nanaimo. He says "the time is coming when we will have socialized medicine, whether the medical men like it or not."

He agrees with Mr. Webster concerning charitable enterprizes, and would like to see donations given for all under one head. "It's confused otherwise."

The health and welfare department, he believes, is the best because it is primarily a humanitarian office, and people are the main resources of any country. Health of these people, then too, is a resource, he believes. Yearly health bill of Canada is $3½ billion a year, he points out to illustrate.

Mr. Martin doesn't like the word "socialize" as used by the doctor. "Surely you don't have to use that nasty word," is how he phrases it. "We just put ourselves in a position where we can pay for the services."

Whether Mr. Martin was speaking as an individual or for the government's over-all conception of doctors and hospitalization is not brought out. Whatever happens, Mr. Martin insists as an individual that "I have the choice doctors at all times, though it is all right if Dr. Giovando attends me. I hear he's very capable."

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing says B.C. historically has paid more attention to health and welfare of the people than any other province. It pioneered in preventive medimedicine and became a guide to other provinces. This is because B.C. is inhabited by people with a keen sense of social responsibility.

Oak Bay Goes Slow On Clubhouse

Oak Bay Council Thursday night was advised by Reeve F. E. Norris to act carefully on a request by the Oak Bay Wanderers Rugby Club to be allowed to institute a clubhouse at Currie Road and St. Louis Street.

The request in the form of a letter from Richard C. Ellis, Wanderers' coach, said while facilities at Windsor Park furnished by the municipality were adequate it was felt the club could carry on its work of advancing rugby, football and baseball among the younger boys of the district more successfully with its own clubhouse.

Reeve Norris said one suggestion of the club that it could rent living quarters to members would bring it into the realm of a rooming or boarding house.

The letter was referred to the Town Planning Commission.

Refunds Due Half Canada's Taxpayers

OTTAWA (BUP) — More than half the country's 4,800,000 income taxpayers have refunds averaging $54.27 apiece coming to them, Revenue Minister J. J. McCann said today. The refunds will total an estimated $146,000,000. The sooner their returns are filed, he said, the faster the rebates will be mailed out.

Eden Asks Both Sides To Forego Use of Force

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Britain's Foreign Secretary Eden called today for an indication of renunciation of force "by both sides" to help settle the Formosan problem.

Eden, who arrived here Wednesday from Rangoon, is having talks with India's Prime Minister Nehru on Formosa and Indo-China.

Into Deficits

THE DEFICIT IN THE CANADIAN Government's current budget is now admitted by Mr. Howe. We shall not know its exact dimensions until Mr. Harris delivers his budget speech a few weeks hence. But it probably is substantial and larger than the surface figures show.

The Government measures its position by its current receipts and expenditures. In the fiscal year ending March 31, Mr. Howe indicates, the expenditures will exceed the receipts. To these admitted expenditures, however, should be added, in candid bookkeeping, the huge deficits that continue to pile up in the old age pension system. For surely the payment of pensions is a current expenditure if anything is.

Nevertheless, we have proceeded so far on the fiction that the "loans" which the treasury makes to the old-age pension fund will be repaid some day, and therefore that we need not count the shortage as part of our total deficit.

When Mr. Harris files his accounts for the present fiscal year we should reckon our deficit as the difference between current expenditure and receipts, plus any shortage in the old age pension fund. The total no doubt will be heavy.

How has this come about? It comes about from a tiny fractional miscalculation of the nation's prosperity in 1954. Mr. Abbott reckoned last spring that there would be no fall in production, that some slight gain was likely. In fact the business recovery which he foresaw in his budget speech has occurred, but a little later than he expected.

Meanwhile, apparently, revenues have not quite reached his expectations and a deficit results. It was not a planned deficit, such as the British Columbia Government has planned for the next year. It was the result of general economic conditions that were good, but not as good as the Ottawa experts hoped.

All that is water over the dam. What does Mr. Harris propose for the fiscal year beginning April 1?

To begin with, he has cut his estimates of expenditure by $153.5 millions from the total of the present year. It might be supposed from this figure that he could therefore cut taxes by a similar amount. No such assumption is possible, for everything will depend on Mr. Harris' calculation of revenue and that, in turn, will depend upon the state of the national economy which, moving up or down by a minute fraction, can instantly raise or reduce tax collections.

If, after cutting estimated expenditure, Mr. Harris assumes that revenues will not fall, or may even rise with the current rise in business, he may have some margin left in the next year for tax reductions but, at best, they cannot be more than fractional. There is no real relief in sight so long as the defence program stands at its present necessary level—that is, unless the government proposes to budget deliberately for another deficit. That is unlikely and would be quite unjustified.

Anyway, we have crossed a watershed in our financial affairs, from the days of easy surpluses to a new period of actual deficit, after being told by the Conservative Party that the Government was collecting too much money, "over-taxing" the people and piling up savings unnecessarily.

The absurdity of that notion is now only too apparent. The real problem of the national Government from now on will be to pay its way and, to do so, it will have to continue and probably expand the modest program of economy introduced by Mr. Harris in the last few months.

A Vital Part of the Scene

AN INSTITUTION AS WELL and as widely known as the Red Cross needs no explanation in this community. Nor should any argument be necessary in advocating financial support for its work. To know it is to appreciate it; to hear its name or see its symbol is to recognize its value.

Whether it be emergency mass aid to a flooded-out population, individual assistance to some harassed housewife, or a continuing effort such as provision of blood for hospitals—to mention but three of many Red Cross services—the work of this great organization has won a unique place in man's consciousness.

Today the Red Cross appeals for funds to carry on its work; the response should be wide and generous. To imagine this country and this community, in war or peace, without the services of the Red Cross is to acknowledge their importance to us. Now, while the campaign is on, it is as much a matter of good citizenship as of good neighborliness to donate as much as possible.

Mystery in Saskatchewan

THERE IS SOMETHING FASCINating and mysterious about the Social Credit Party's latest demarche in Saskatchewan, but nothing obscure about its purpose.

Mr. Kohaly, the only Conservative in the Saskatchewan legislature, says he has been offered the provincial Social Credit leadership. But he refuses to say who made the offer. The Saskatchewan Social Credit leaders say they certainly did not. Mr. Noel Murphy, president of the B.C. Social Credit League, says he did not.

Mr. Kohaly and Mr. Alvin Hamilton, leader of the Saskatchewan Conservative Party, say the offer definitely was made and is under consideration. If there is such an offer it seems to come from British Columbia or Alberta, or both, just as it was the Alberta Social Credit movement which first organized the party here.

These are details of party housekeeping which may never be fully revealed, but they are all part of a strategy first laid down by the Bennett government. Under that strategy Social Credit hopes to absorb, destroy and replace the Conservative Party as the right wing of Canadian politics. This already has been accomplished for all practical purposes in British Columbia and Alberta. Saskatchewan is next on the list.

But there is precious little Conservative strength in Saskatchewan to be absorbed. The politics of that agrarian province have long been divided between the only CCF government in Canada and the powerful Liberal Party. Only one Conservative member sits for Saskatchewan in Parliament and only one in the provincial legislature.

The hopeful Social Credit kidnappers of the Conservative Party there will not get much for their trouble, but it may be considered worth while if it helps to demonstrate to the rest of Canada that Conservatives like Mr. Kohaly are willing, like Mr. Bennett, to change their lifelong convictions and join the new extreme right wing.

Constructive Action on a Fair

WHATEVER MAY BE THE OUTcome of present negotiations to establish a racetrack and fairground at the Beaver-Elk Lake site, councils of Victoria and Saanich have observed a wise principle in their joint meeting.

The two groups have come together to see what co-operative action they can take. This is a procedure which should set the tone for all future arrangements.

Insistence on legal technicalities alone will be valueless in this matter. Victoria cannot wish a racetrack and fairground off on Saanich unless that municipality is prepared to have one. The fact that the city owns the property is not enough.

This week's meeting of the two bodies shows recognition of that fact. The attitude taken by both groups seemed to be conciliatory. The elected representatives have heard the strong expression of public sentiment for the re-establishment of a fair. They appear to have found a location ideal for that purpose if certain conflicting opinions of residents can be reconciled.

They have taken the excellent course of inviting town planners for each district and the Capital Region Planning Board to study and report on the project.

Unquestionably the latter agencies will keep in mind the protection of natural assets in the area. Under no circumstances should the park-like region be deprived of those attractions which make it so valuable as a recreation spot.

Crazy Mixed-Up Kid

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

A FRIEND of mine was watching TV with a fresh eye. He hardly ever bothers to look at the stuff, so perhaps he sees things the rest of us forget to notice. (Stay away from the movies for a year or two, as I have done two or three times in my life, and you will notice all sorts of queer things when you go back. Noise, especially. And artificiality.) My friend was asked what interested him in TV, now so old-fangled to most of us. He said "Only two things. There is far too much gesture, and it is done all wrong. Meaningless gesture. Ugly gesture. And then there's the men's suits. Nearly all of them are shapeless. TV seems to accentuate this. If I were a good tailor near a TV studio, I'd end up rich or crazy. Depending on whether they listened to me or not."

Brock

Asked, a little mockingly, if there was nothing else he'd like to see changed, he said "Oh, yes. Most of the faces are badly tailored too. But I guess there's not much we can do about that." "What's so wrong about the faces?" said his friends, now growing angry. "Oh, just the material, the design, and the cut, I guess,' said this awful man. Buttons OK?

NOT QUITE THE SAME THING

MR. MALCOLM MUGGERIDGE, the well-known editor of Punch, is said to have a wonderful TV personality. No doubt he has. But his pronouncements on TV are a little less wonderful. For example, he is probably quite right in saying TV programs should be neither fantasies nor mere drugs, but should bring us the realities as only TV can bring them. Sounds all right. But this, you may remember, is the man who thinks commercial TV is just the stuff, or will be. I find it hard to reconcile those two thoughts. And so, one day, may he.

UNPROVIDED FOR

I WAS flicking through a book on ghosts and poltergeists by the Jesuit Father Thurston. It is hard to write an interesting book about these creatures. Ghosts follow so familiar a pattern, and so stupid a pattern. Anyone who runs across a really brainy ghost is either a liar or a most fortunate man. There was one very interesting thing in the book, though. Contrary to what we are always being told, the Church has no special service for laying a ghost. When you call in a Catholic priest (or, I suppose, any other clergyman) to exorcize a ghost, he has no clear idea of what to do.

HE can say some prayers . . . any that occur to him. He can say Mass, and sprinkle holy water about. But his duties are not clear. Nothing has been provided for this special occasion. Indeed, the Catholic Church does not officially announce its belief in ghosts at all, and so, one presumes, neither does any church descended from it. Laugh that off. Further, not every ghost is willing to listen reasonably to a priest. Many priests have been subjected to indignities and violence while trying to pray a ghost to rest. Or so the evidence goes.

Father Thurston has searched the whole literature on the subject and while he has found some prayers for exorcizing devils and such, there is nothing special designed for use on ghosts. This is definite. And so one more myth goes west.

MORE TV

LET us return to TV for a moment. I have just remembered how an acquaintance was telling me that if I refuse to buy a TV set and spend the rest of my life watching its rather pathetic little peepshow, then I might as well pretend the motor car has not replaced the horse. This argument is too subtle for me to grasp. Do you mean I can't take a taxi unless it has TV in it? Sounds like it. Too bad. I guess I'll just stay home. Till my home has TV in it, I mean. Then I'll go out. On horseback, if necessary.

CROSS-CHANNEL

STILL more about TV. I'm glad they call the different choices "channels." It couldn't be more richly expressed. Each channel is an open drain. Just like the Cloaca Maxima, the town drain of Rome. Or the Fleet Ditch. Ever read Ben Jonson's description of the Fleet Ditch, the main dump and sewer of his London? Sounds exactly like TV, really. With only one important difference: if a historian of today could peer into the Fleet Ditch he would get some interesting sidelights on the ex-owners of that garbage. But when a historian of 2300 AD looks at Channel This or Channel That as viewed in 1955, he will completely misinterpret our daily lives. . . I hope.

HIGH Q.

ENGLISH booksellers sell little booklets of typical I.Q. tests. By getting himself used to this type of quiz, a child can boost his apparent I.Q. by about 10 points. Not his real I.Q., of course. It does nobody any good, and it may do the child and his parents harm by misleading the school for a short period. It is rather like lying to your doctor or your lawyer. But the books have a tremendous sale. I dare say they serve one real purpose. They show the I.Q. of the parent who buys a copy.

As Our Readers See It

INDIANS AND LIQUOR

Before criticizing the drinking habits of our Indians, I suggest that Mr. Gibson and others walk past any beer parlor in Vancouver, especially on a Saturday night at 11.30 when it is "spewing" out its patrons. Then they will see how their fellow Canadians behave.

It is a truly revolting and disgusting sight to see drunken men and women lurching along the streets and in buses. In the morning they may see, at frequent intervals on the streets, the result of excessive drinking in the form of vomit. Not a pleasant sight, but a realistic one.

As for Indians neglecting their children, this is not peculiar to them. Our so-called white people neglect theirs, too, yet they have had the advantage of education, or at least schooling, for several generations.

As Frank Calder and other Indians in a position to judge are not concerned about the drinking habits of Indians, I do not feel it is any concern of ours to judge them. "Live and let live."

ROAR BECOMES 'PURR'

A long article in a recent issue of the London Times describes the results of fitting a helicopter with an exhaust silencer.

This silencer is rather like the type used on motor cars. "It was designed and built in 10 days. Designs exist for less cumbersome and more streamlined silencers, which may be fitted later as standard equipment on all helicopters built by Westlands."

Tests were made of the noise penetration of this silencer-equipped helicopter while it was flying low over the Houses of Parliament. The noise was reduced 'from an uneven roar to a steady purr," in the words of the Times article.

While it was cruising over the Thames as a height of some 200 feet, "It could only just be heard above the hum of passing road traffic. Even when the aircraft was standing on the ground nearby normal conversation was possible."

In the Chamber of the House of Commons the sound it made was somewhat like that "of a bus passing quickly outside the building" and "when a keen debate was in progress the sound would hardly have been noticed."

On the Embankment "people waiting for buses could not hear the helicopter above the noise of the traffic."

FERRY SERVICE

The report in your February 16 issue regarding a ferry service from the Saanich Peninsula to the mainland apparently refers to the proposed year-round Sidney-Steveston ferry service, and not to the proposed Saanichton Bay-mainland service.

Over a year ago, as the Reeve of Central Saanich, I had an interview with Col. Paulin, manager of the Black Ball Ferry Co., regarding the establishment of a year-round ferry service to the mainland from Saanichton Bay in Central Saanich. I then drew his attention to the suitability of Saanichton Bay as a safe naturally protected location to establish a year-round ferry service to the mainland. He told me that Capt. Peabody, the head of the Black Ball Ferry Line, had given consideration to the possible use of Saanichton Bay and recognized its advantages for a year-round ferry service if such a service was justified.

At that time Col. Paulin informed me that his company were preparing a traffic survey and that nothing could be done by his company until their survey was completed.

Toward the end of 1954 the Dominion government, after a complete study of the suitability of the location from a navigational point of view, decided not to spend a large sum of money constructing a breakwater in an effort to make the exposed Sidney wharf safe and suitable for year-round operation.

I then, as Reeve of Central Saanich, again interviewed Col. Paulin re the possibility of establishing a year-round ferry service from Saanichton Bay to the mainland. He then told me that such a suggested ferry service was not in the plans of his company, at that time. He added that when his company had completed certain projected plans that further consideration could then be given to the Saanichton Bay proposal.

It would seem that the interest of Victoria and the Saanich Peninsula would best be served if all groups of citizens were to unite in advocating the safe and sheltered Saanichton Bay, which is near Victoria and on the Patricia Bay Highway, as a suitable ferry terminal for the operation of a year-round fast ferry service to the mainland.

MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY FUND

May we, the Fire Fighters of Greater Victoria, through the medium of your newspaper, bring the citizens of Victoria up to date with the final amounts received by the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada from this area, British Columbia and Canada.

The donations from the Greater Victoria area total $3,843.50, from British Columbia, close to $14,000. For Canada, the total is $129,107.77.

Quoting from a letter from Mr. E. Swan, president, B.C. Division of Muscular Dystrophy Association, "We are very happy with the results of the campaign and think people have been very generous. This will enable us to do a considerable amount of research work. You will be glad to hear that we have received official notice to start a research project at the University of B.C. under the supervision of Dr. W. C. Gibson, the director of neurological research."

Many of the public have been contacting us for receipts for their donations for income tax purposes.

Quoting from a letter from J. B. Van Der Hout, treasurer, Muscular Distrophy Association of Canada, "At the moment, we have already receipted some 25,000 contributions and still have perhaps 25,000 to do. Please accept my personal assurance that the receipts will be forthcoming to your community as quickly as is humanly possible."

May the Fire Fighters of this area again express to the Greater Victoria public our deep and sincere appreciation for their tremendous co-operation and support of the Muscular Dystrophy Campaign for funds.

The Problem of Nanchishan

BY JOSEPH ALSOP From Taipei, Formosa

AN important offshore island is going. After having been refused American help to defend Nanchishan, the Chinese Nationalist government has decided to abandon Nanchi to the Communists. This is a drastic change of plan. Evacuation of the civilian population of Nanchishan began soon after the retreat from the Tachens. But the island's military garrison was supposed to defend the place to the death. In fact, this intention is still being publicly insisted upon. And while the decision to take off the garrison has already been made, there are public announcements of reinforcement.

Alsop

For the American policymakers, the abandonment of this pretty little islet sixty miles or more south of the Tachens will be an event of high significance.

On the one hand, it vastly increases the likelihood of an early Communist attack on the offshore islands which have been given an on-again-off-again guarantee by the Eisenhower administration. Unless the wisest Chinese and Americans here are unanimously mistaken, the President's willingness to assist the defense of Quemoy and the Matsus should soon be put to an acid test.

On the other hand, precisely because an early attack on Quemoy or the Matsus is now much more probable, the time available for negotiating a cease-fire in the Formosa Strait is probably much reduced.

In high Chinese quarters here, it is believed that in Bangkok, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is promising Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden full American backing, if Britain can trade the rest of the offshore islands for a reasonably guaranteed cease-fire.

NEED TIME

But as both the Chinese Communists and the Chinese Nationalists have bitterly denounced the whole idea of such a trade, a good deal of time is surely needed for the trading.

From the Chinese standpoint, meanwhile, the evacuation of Nanchishan will be a bitter pill, made all the more unpalatable by the claims that the place would be held at all costs. The pill has been swallowed for two quite different reasons.

First and foremost, the Generalissimo and his colleagues are very far from averse to bringing nearer the moment for the final test of the Eisenhower Administration's real intentions regarding Quemoy and the Matsus. Although the Chinese profess confidence in public, they are venomous in private about the uncertainty of American policy. And they are not at all averse to cutting down the available time for cease-fire negotiations.

The position on Nanchishan has now become militarily untenable without American aid. U.S. help in defending Nanchi was urgently requested—and not for the first time—during the evacuation of the Tachens. The refusal of aid and the subsequent rapid Communist enveloping movements then sealed Nanchi's fate.

The enemy's enveloping movements have virtually encircled Nanchi by this time. To the south, halfway between Nanchishan and/or Matsus, the Communists have put troops on the Taishan Islands. And Pekishan and the other little islands of Nanchi's own group, which lie just north of Nanchi, have also been occupied by the enemy.

For some time now, Nanchi has been garrisoned by a regiment of Chinese regular troops, but the defense of the place was always held to depend on the Tachens. Hence powerful defense positions have not been built.

A hard fight for Nanchi might still have been attempted, however, if it were not for the local air balance. In theory, an air battle for Nanchi was feasible, since it is just about equidistant from the Nationalist airbases on Formosa and the Communist bases on the mainland.

WEAK IN AIR

But in practice, the Nationalists have only one fully operating wing of obsolescent F-84 jet fighters, plus another wing of Sabrejets which has now been sent into combat ahead of its training schedule. Their other planes are Second World War types. In other words, the Nationalists do not have enough jet fighters to want to take on the much more numerous MIG-15s of the enemy.

Without a simultaneous attempt to control the air, any attempt to reinforce and supply Nanchishan massively by sea would be a suicidal operation, especially for the rather weak Nationalist navy. With the Communists quite obviously preparing another triphibious operation like that which won them Yikiangshan, there were only two choices.

The Generalissimo either had to sacrifice the Nanchi garrison for the sake of showing fight or order them to abandon Nanchi. His original intention to do the former may perhaps have been shaken by American advice to the contrary. But the desire to bring this crisis of the offshore islands to a climax, and so to forestall any effective cease-fire bargaining, quite certainly entered in, too.

IT'S INTEREST THAT COUNTS

It is my profound conviction, and more so every year I grow older, that there's only one thing that can ever make people happy and that is being interested in life. And I think it is possible to be interested in it in all circumstances. And therefore it's always possible to be happy.

—Malcolm Muggeridge, Editor of Britain's humorous weekly, "Punch."

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Hail to Thee, Our Alma Mater

THIS week the Legislature has been putting through the bill which will make Victoria College snuggle up a little closer to the University of British Columbia. When the arrangement is completed, I have the feeling the College will be a chick under the wings of the mother hen.

Because of an unreasoning local pride, I've been waiting for a mild, but resentful melancholy to claim me. I've been wondering why I don't protest gently against a change which could reduce the sturdy independence I've always attached to College.

Stott

The sentiment won't come, even for a sentimental guy like me.

It's one of the simple pleasures of hundreds of people to look back on college days and compare the college men of their generation with those of today. None of them talks much of the marvelous transformation which converts a high school kid into a college man in the amazingly short period between matriculation in June and freshman enrollment in September. They ought to. It's one of the more interesting phenomena of higher education.

A man's own class in college reaches a sort of Everest peak. None before it was ever quite so good. None that follows can ever measure up. There's a self-asserted excellence to a person and his contemporaries which may not be too rational, but is extremely buoyant to the ego.

RESENTING CHANGE

Probably that's why people are inclined to resent change in their old college. Changes are needed, of course. But when, after years of campaigning, Victoria College was moved from Craigdarroch to the Normal School building, a lot of us applauded the switch and then wept silently into our malted milks because College out of Craigdarroch could never be the same.

The ivy and the turrets were gone—along with the poor light and bad air of inadequate lecture rooms. The friendly ghosts were left behind. An Alumnus, returning, couldn't find his initials carved on walls in a different building, couldn't find the indelicate improvements he had made to the plaster figurines of the old Dunsmuir Castle rooms, had no direct association of place with romance and incident in his own days as an undergraduate.

Unless you accept the argument that college students are almost inevitably in love with youth and transfer their affection to the halls they knew at that stage of life, it's a little difficult to understand the old-timer's affection for Craigdarroch.

'SITTIN BY O'REILLY'S FIRE'

Victoria College in the old days had no alma mater song. The boys roared through a ditty John Shaw taught them, starting with the line "Sitting by O'Reilly's fire . . ." and becoming less printable as it progressed. You can get a mild version of it from T. S. Eliot's "Cocktail Party" if you have patience to search through the play. And there was another number—probably stemming from earlier McGill affiliations, which went "Put on your old red sweater, 'cause you've got non better" to the tune of "Your Old Grey Bonnet."

But all in all there weren't too many conventional expressions to create an undying attachment to the old Scottish baronial building—if that's what you call the architecture. Nobody composed a hymn "In the halls of old Craigdarroch," which is a pity.

Still, affection there was for the relic, with its draughts, its ornate fireplaces, its worn corridors, the semi-dungeons of its basement and its postage stamp campus.

It was a sentiment born of those close contacts between professors and students, class mates and fellow team members. No doubt the attitude would have developed in any building in which the College was housed, but we did feel distinctively—and maybe a little snobbishly—Craigdarroch.

I suppose some of the threads of memory's continuity were broken when the move was made to Mount Tolmie. Perhaps that accounts for a lack of indignation over the new change in status of the College, which won't, incidentally, change the building.

Or maybe the feeling of attachment for UBC has been growing. UBC is a pretty impressive place. How could it be otherwise when so many Victoria College people have put and are putting so much into it?

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

More Things Not So

Dr. Alvarez Is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

One of the baseless medical ideas which most persons believe in is the idea that a baby in the womb can be marked by some incident that happnes to the mother. It sounds reasonable, and often when a mother sees a birthmark on some part of her infant she can remember a time when she received a blow on the corresponding part of her body.

Experts remind me that any marking of an infant, if it is to have an effect, must be done in the early weeks, perhaps before the woman knows she is pregnant. After that the child is so well-formed that he or she can no longer be marked. This ought to reassure thousands of mothers who now fear that if they see a rabbit their child will have a hare lip, or if they see a person with some deformity, their unborn baby will get the same thing. It will not.

Alvarez

One of the most firmly established of wrong and silly ideas is that the eating of food cooked in aluminum pots will poison people. As I always say, most persons with a peptic ulcer swallow down in a year enough aluminum hydroxide to make several pots! For 30 years or more government health agencies have been telling people not to pay any attention to this silly fear of aluminum.

Another fixed idea of mothers is that their children must not go in swimming right after a meal. I know of no reason for this injunction; as a boy in Hawaii, swimming every day, I never paid any attention to it.

Another curious and baseless idea is that a cat left in a room with a baby may suck its breath.

A friend asks me, how about the idea that, that, in a thunderstorm, one should not be in the tub. I imagine that this has some sense to it because, if lightning were to hit a ventilator pipe in the roof it could go down to the bathroom and perhaps kill a person sitting well-grounded in the tub.

MOTHER DIDN'T KNOW

When I was a boy, my mother would have been greatly alarmed if she had seen me eating cherries and milk at the same time. She warned me never to do this, but being scientifically-inclined, I promptly experimented, and got my friends to experiment, and none of us suffered even a mild stomach-ache.

Another common idea that hasn't even been proved correct is the old one that one should "feed a cold and starve a fever." I doubt if there is any sense to the injunction. If there is, I do not know what it is.

In India and some other tropical countries Britishers believe that if they wear a woollen band about their abdomen, next to the skin, they will avoid cholera and diseases of the liver and kidney. Obviously, it is a silly idea with no grounding in fact.

Many women fear that a blow on the breast will cause cancer, but this does not seem at all probable. Occasionally, a severe localized blow will produce a blood clot, but that will soon be absorbed. Occasionally, right after a woman sustains a blow on her breast, perhaps from someone's elbow in a crowd, she will find a tumor, simply because she examined herself carefully. The tumor may have been there for six months or more.

REAL CURE EASIER

One of the things about which most persons in cold countries agree is that a frozen cheek or hand or nose should not be warmed but rather rubbed with snow. Stefansson, the great polar explorer who ought to know, said, "No, if your hand is numb or frozen, put it into your armpit or into the armpit of a friend."

Recently, I saw where the armed forces research men, working in the polar regions, said that rubbing with snow is not necessary. Warm up the frozen parts of the body as quickly as possible.

Another crazy idea is that whisky is a good treatment for snake-bite. The only medicine that is likely to help the person with a bad snake-bite is an antivenin serum made by injecting some animal with increasing amounts of the particular snake's venom.

An interesting folk-lore idea that is wrong is that for every disease the Lord made, He made an herb that would cure, and He marked it with a "signature" so that we humans could identify it. That is why people once used liverwort for liver diseases, the dried skin of a yellow parrot for jaundice, the herb "eye bright" for eye diseases, and red wine for diseases of the blood.

Many persons say that if one forces a left-handed child to use his right hand he will stutter, but experts seem to agree that this is not so. It is good if a left-handed child can learn to use his right hand for many purposes.

Rabies Threatens 2,000 Huskies In Quebec Area

SEPT-ILES, Que. (CP)—Government scientists have been flown into this isolated St. Lawrence Gulf area to fight an epidemic spreading madness among sled dogs and foxes.

Two Quebec veterinarians, armed with $10,000 worth of serum, left Sept-Iles by plane Saturday to visit the small scattered settlements along the north shore of the St. Lawrence River.

The disease, called rabies or hydrophobia, already has infected nearly one-quarter of the 2,000 huskies in northwestern Quebec. Hundreds have died in Labrador. The Newfoundland government is concerned that the hardy breed will die out if the disease is not checked.

Mental Patient Visits Lawmakers

The dignified atmosphere of the B.C. Legislature was disturbed Thursday by a search for an Essondale mental hospital escapee who calls himself the "King of Kings."

RCMP officers prowled the corridors looking for him during the night sitting.

The mental patient apparently has a liking for the Legislature. He is reported to have visited the House last year, during another period of freedom.

MLAs, late-working government employees, and others, were given the "once-over" by the RCMP constables.

The escapee was spotted in the provincial library Thursday afternoon.

Vancouver Man Wins Drunk Driving Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP)—John C. Drinkle, Vancouver real estate salesman, sentenced to 14 days' imprisonment for impaired driving, won his freedom Thursday when Judge Bruce Boyd set aside his conviction.

Drinkle was sentenced by Magistrate Oscar Orr in December. He appealed the case to county court. Judge Boyd set aside the conviction on the grounds that "there was no evidence Drinkle drove his car in other than a normal manner."

Sailors on Maggie Spree Drank 'Screech' Court Martial of Victoria PO Reveals

(Special to the Times)

HALIFAX — A Victoria man, PO Maynard V. Johnson, pleaded not guilty Thursday before a naval court-martial in Halifax to two charges arising from a poison punch drinking episode last month aboard the aircraft carrier HMCS Magnificent. A third charge was dismissed.

A veteran of 15 years of service with the RCN, who wears three good conduct stripes representing 13 years without being convicted of an offence, PO Johnson is charged on two counts "to the prejudice of good order and discipline."

They are: That on Jan. 21 in HMCS Magnificent he unlawfully furnished OS Alan McKellar with a beverage containing duplicating fluid, thereby resulting in poisoning, and that he consumed an intoxicant on board HMCS Magnificent contrary to regulations.

A third charge was dismissed by the court. In brief, it charged neglect to the prejudice of good order and discipline.

MacDonald Testifies

A witness for the prosecution was John L. MacDonald, who Monday was convicted on three charges and sentenced to two years' imprisonment less one day and dismissal from the service. He was convicted on charges of having improper possession of duplicating fluid, of furnishing it to another seaman and of consuming it himself. He was found not guilty of stealing duplicating fluid.

Shortly after he took the stand he asked for and was granted protection of the court, a convenience where his evidence can be used by the court in session but not by any other court.

As MacDonald told the court he saw PO Johnson on two occasions on Jan. 21 once at approximately 1.30 p.m. and again near 4.30 p.m. he said the first was a casual meeting in MacDonald's mess where he (MacDonald) was sitting drinking. The following are a series of questions and answers between the prosecutor and MacDonald.

P. What were the circumstances of the first meeting?

M. I was in my mess. He came in and came over to the table where I was sitting and we began talking. I was drinking at the time and gave him a drink of the stuff I was drinking.

P. What were you drinking?

M. Duplicating fluid.

P. Where did you get this duplicating fluid?

M. From stationery stores aboard Magnificent.

P. Describe the container.

M. It was a one-gallon tin container. When I originally obtained it the tin had a yellow and black label and was marked "Beaver Brand Spirit Duplicator Fluid."

P. What did you do with the can?

M. I took it to my mess.

P. Were there any markings on the can then?

M. No.

P. What did you do with the can?

M. I took it to my mess at approximately 12.45 and had a drink from it. I gave two members of the mess a drink from the can and set it under the table.

P. Did you see Johnson take a drink?

M. No, I didn't see him drink it. I poured some duplicating fluid into a glass to within an inch of the top and he took it with him.

Mixed Two Drinks

MacDonald testified he saw Johnson about 4.30 p.m. in M-28, Johnson's mess. He said he mixed two drinks containing duplicating fluid and Coca Cola in a pantry adjoining the mess and that he and Johnson drank them.

On cross examination by the defense, he was asked if he had told Johnson what the fluid from the can was. MacDonald replied: "In his (Johnson's) conversation he implied that it was medical alcohol. I let it go at that.'

PO George R. Brown testified he entered his (M-28) mess about 3.30 p.m. Jan. 21 to get dressed to go ashore. While at the locker "someone asked me if I'd like a wet before I went ashore and I said sure."

"When I turned around there was a 'drink' sitting close to the centre of the mess table. Johnson, two other seamen and two dockyard employees were sitting at the table," he said.

"I picked up the drink and asked if it was mine. Somebody said 'yes' so I asked PO Johnson what it was. He said 'it's good brew, you won't taste anything like that for a while.' I sat down and drank it and agreed with PO Johnson it was a good brew," he said.

He told the court the next thing he remembered was being very sick at home late that night and of being taken to naval hospital.

OS Alan McKellar, an engineer mechanic aboard the Magnificent, testified he was offered a drink by the accused at about 5 p.m. when he went on duty in the forward machinery space. The drink in question was in a coke bottle situated on top of a waste can in the boiler room. He said he drank the drink that was offered.

McKellar testified he did not know what was in the bottle or how it got there. He said he later saw Johnson in M-28 mess after he got off watch at 9 p.m. sitting in the mess reading with a full glass in front of him. "I asked him what it was and he said 'Go ahead' so I had three drinks out of the glass," he said. Following are some questions and answers between McKellar and the prosecutor.

Called it 'Screech'

P. Was there any conversation?

M. We talked about a lot of things . . . then I asked him what was in the drink.

P. What did he say it was?

M. He said it was Newfoundland "screech."

P. Anything else?

M. I asked him what Newfoundland "screech" was and he said it was home-made alcohol.

AS Pierre Freshette testified he saw Johnson in M-28 mess about 9.30 p.m. drinking from a cup but he did not know what was in the cup. He said there was also a coke bottle on the table with some liquid in it and he had a drink from it because "I was thirsty."

LS J. J. E. Gallant told the court he was recalled from leave Jan. 22 and asked to check the quantity of duplicating fluid in stationery stores. He said there were 11 gallons in the store.

He further testified that a deficiency of two gallons of the fluid was discovered Nov. 15 but was not reported since it was not required by regulations.

He said a shipment of 14 gallons was received Dec. 1 and that to his knowledge no issue had been made up until Jan. 22. The 11 gallons in stationery stores Jan. 22, therefore, represented a discrepancy of three gallons in addition to the original two gallons.

He said 12 gallons of duplicating fluid was returned by the signals and distributing office and that all duplicating fluid has been kept in a locked cupboard of the inflammable stores since the incident.

PO Eugene J. Barnaby testified that he saw a gallon tin lying on the deck beneath a bunk in M-28 mess prior to his going on watch at 4 a.m. and that on arrival in the forward machinery space he found three coke bottles, two of them containing a clear liquid and the third containing an amber liquid.

He said he threw two of the bottles in a sollage tank and poured the contents of the third, containing clear liquid, into an ash tray and burned it in the presence of AS. Fortin.

AS. Gaston J. Fortin testified that between 4 and 8 a.m. he was instructed to go to M-28 mess by PO. Barnaby, take a can he would find there and throw it overboard. I went to the port side of the ship and dumped it overboard, he said.

Surgeon Lieut. Norman W. Bradford, medical officer aboard the Magnificent, said he examined PO. Johnson and through a "presumtive diagnosis" found him to be suffering from "severe intoxication." He said he also examined McKellar and found him to be suffering from intoxication. Both were admitted to RCNH, he said.

Surgeon Lieut. Cdr. Donald W. Brooks, who was duty medical officer at RCNH said that on a basis of a clinical examination, clinical history response to treatment he found that both Johnson and McKellar were suffering from methyl alcohol poisoning.

Archibald C. Gates, Halifax, a chemist with the Department of Veteran's Affairs at Halifax's Camp Hill Hospital, said he was issued with an unsealed can of Beaver Brand duplicating fluid from naval stores at HMC Dockyard and tested it for methyl alcohol.

"The tests were strongly positive," he said.

Court was adjourned late Thursday to allow the defense time to consider whether or not they will call witnesses. The prosecution concluded its case Thursday and the service trial is expected to be completed late today.

$28 Million Suit Settled for $15,000

DETROIT (CP)—A claim of $28,000,000 against the estate of the late Mrs. Henry Ford by her brother, Edward Bryant, was settled out of court Thursday for a reported $15,000.

Bryant filed the claim in April, 1951, on the basis of what he said were the "many services" he had performed for the late Henry Ford.

Icy Highway Surface Blamed at Ladysmith For Fatal Accident

Coroner's Jury at Engelbrecht Inquest Recommends More Extensive Road Sanding

LADYSMITH — More extensive sanding of public highways as a means of preventing future accidents was recommended by a coroner's jury here Wednesday night.

Empanelled to inquire into the death of Sven Arne Englebrect, 21-year-old forest service employee, who died in an ambulance following an accident near Cassidy Airport last Friday evening, the jury brought in a verdict of "accidental death with no blame attached to anyone" and attributed the accident to the icy condition of the highway at the point where the accident occured.

Principal witness at the inquiry was Travers A. M. Customs, driver and owner of the auto in which Englebrect was riding.

MODERATE SPEED

He told the jury that he and Englebrecht and John Wilgress, all forest service employees, had been driving from Cassidy to Ladysmith Friday evening and that he was driving between 30 and 35 miles per hour because of the condition of the road.

Near the airport the car skidded almost in a complete circle then flipped over on its right side. He and Wilgress were not injured, but Englebrecht fell partly out of the car on the right hand side and was caught between the door and the door frame when the car turned on its side.

Wilgress went to the airport to phone for the police and an ambulance, and Custom flagged down passing cars until there was sufficient help to lift the car off Englebrecht.

Dr. H. A. Bowker, who was waiting at the hospital when the ambulance arrived, told the jury that Englebrecht died of a broken neck before he reached the hospital.

SLIGHT DAMAGE

Joseph Grouhel, Jr., local garage operator, said that he had examined the Custom car after the accident and found the brakes and steering in excellent condition and the vehicle only slightly damaged.

In reply to questions from the coroner, he said he believed that Englebrecht had opened the car door before the car turned over because he did not think the car hit the ground hard enough to open the door. He added that only a little pressure on the door handle would release the catch.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Dr. H. W. Lewis, district coroner, said: "I might say that sanding of the road would probably have prevented this accident."

Labor Trouble Strikes Again At Newspaper

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—The West Coast Advocate, weekly newspaper which signed with the International Typographical Union Tuesday after a six-weeks' strike, was strikebound again today.

Jim Greenwood, union printer, said the agreement, calling for an eight-per-cent increase, was signed Tuesday, the newspaper published Wednesday night, and he was laid off Thursday morning.

Jack Moore, financial secretary of the International Woodworkers of America which had a man on the picket line, said the man was "going back on this morning until things are straightened out."

The strike was called originally when publisher Irving Wilson rejected the union contract. The Advocate resumed publication two weeks ago in spite of the picket line, saying it was being printed by owner-operators.

Greenwood said after he was laid off that there was no union help in the shop.

Drama Group Due to Form In Ladysmith

LADYSMITH — Possibility of organizing a drama group in Ladysmith was discussed this week at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. J. Butler.

In attendance were Miss A. Adamson of the community programs branch of the department of education and Miss Anne Mossman, FTCL, director of the Yellow Point Drama Group.

Miss Adamson gave the group useful information on where and how to obtain play scripts and other essentials, and assured those present of the full co-operation of the community programs branch.

Miss Mossman told how the highly successful Yellow Point Group had become established and also gave information on stage settings.

BCHIS Makes Survey for New Hospital

CAMPBELL RIVER — Lloyd Detwiller, assistant commissioner of the BCHIS, and Miss N. Grigg, of the service research devision, this week completed a survey of conditions that will govern the new general hospital here.

Clearing and construction for the new hospital, to be financed through a hospital improvement district, is expected to begin in early summer.

Accompanied by Dr. L. Anderson, medical health officer for the upper Island, they checked on water supplies, garbage disposal, expected industrial expansion, number of schools, electric power conditions, and anticipated population changes.

Mr. Detwiller also visited Lourdes Hospital, and complimented Sister Superior Mary Agatha on the recently-completed interior decorating job in the hospital.

Ladysmith Hospital Fund Now $42,500

LADYSMITH—More than 650 persons pledging an average of $65 each have pushed the hospital fund to $42,500, directors of the Ladysmith and District Hospital Foundation learned at a meeting this week.

During the past four months the fund has increased at the rate of $2,500 per month, John Ulinder, campaign director, reported.

In view of this total and the fact that no approach has yet been made to the large industries of the district, Dr. J. W. Neville, foundation president, predicted that a start would be made on the hospital this summer.

While the trust fund has been growing steadily, the operating fund from which the foundation meets campaign expenses, has become sadly depleted, Don Mc Kay, foundation treasurer, reported.

DRAMA CLUB HELPS

Because of this situation, the directors accepted an offer from the Yellow Point Drama League to present a three-act play here this spring.

It was decided to ask the PTA and local service clubs to assist in selling tickets for this production. An appeal will also be made for direct donations to the operating room.

Dr. Neville reported that letters had been sent out to a number of firms doing business in the city requesting donations, and that these had brought a total of approximately $700 in cash and credit vouchers.

Annual meeting of the foundation will be held later this month. Business of the meeting will include presentation of annual reports and election of officers.

Former Alderman Supports Racing At Nanaimo Park

NANAIMO — Beban Park, city-owned property three miles from Nanaimo, is "a natural" for horse racing, said former alderman P. J. Piper.

Speaking in support of horse racing at the park, which has a half-mile track, he said the sport could count on good support in Nanaimo, and that he had horse racing in mind when he helped to negotiate the purchase of the park for the city.

He suggested the park should have, in addition to the track, a stadium, swimming pool and skating rink similar to Hastings Park in Vancouver.

"Interested parties" in Victoria and Vancouver have made inquiries regarding establishing racing here, according to W. S. Oliver, manager of the Nanaimo Civic Arena.

Nanaimo exhibition board hopes to meet with the city council and Beban Park Development Association to discuss holding the annual fall fair at the park in October.

LAND OF LAKES

Sweden has nearly 100,000 lakes, carved out centuries ago by retreating glaciers.

'. . . NOW GO MOW THE LAWN'

NANAIMO (CP) — Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts knew the man who awaited sentence Thursday on a bootlegging charge.

It was Wong Tow, his gardener, who was convicted of selling liquor to police undercover men in Chinatown. Wong grinned as the magistrate fined him $400 and $6 court costs.

"I am dealing with him exactly the same as anyone else," said Magistrate Beevor-Potts.

Duncan Hunter Acquitted of Manslaughter

NANAIMO (CP)—A Supreme Court jury Thursday acquitted Lloyd Leroy Fergason of Duncan, charged with manslaughter following the death last November of his hunting companion, Alexander Joseph Finch.

A witness told Mr. Justice H. S. Wood that accused had come to his door and said: "I shot my friend."

Fergason testified he fired twice when he saw a movement in the bush. Earlier, Finch had told him he had wounded a deer and that it was headed in Fergason's direction.

After Fergason fired, he heard Finch call out: "Lloyd, you have shot me."

GIBSON PREPARING CASE

'Money Talks' Probe Get Under Way Monday

Liberal MLA Gordon Gibson was absent from the Legislature Thursday, preparing his case for the Monday opening of the Lord Royal Commission into issuing of forest management licenses.

Mr. Gibson is expected to be the key witness at the probe.

His sensational charges of "payoffs" in the awarding of management licenses, made during the early stages of the current legislative session, resulted in the appointment of County Court Judge Arthur E. Lord as a one-man commission.

Mr. Gibson is scheduled to appear on the first day of the inquiry. The commission opens its doors in Vancouver Courthouse at 11 a.m. Monday.

The statement of the Lillooet MLA which aroused the anger of government benches, and led to his "naming" by Speaker of the House Thomas Irwin was:

"Money talks, and has talked in this . . . and I want that answered by the ministers."

Mr. Gibson attended the Legislature only one day this week.

$65,000 AWARDED TO FAMILY OF MOOSE JAW CRASH VICTIM

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson in British Columbia Supreme Court Thursday approved a settlement of $65.085 for Mrs. Elizabeth Hutton and her two children.

The settlement was made in the death of her husband, Charles G. Hutton, killed in the TCA-RCAF plane collision over Moose Jaw last April 8. Mr. Hutton was manager of Heaps Waterous Engineering Co. here.

Mrs. Hutton is to receive $45,000; her son, Keith, 8, $11,000, and her daughter, Carol Ann, 14, $9,000.

The suit for damage was against the Crown.

Ingrid Resents Lampooning, Fights With Swede Critics

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UP)—Swedish-born actress Ingrid Bergman, who had questioned whether she would ever again set foot in Sweden after the press had lampooned her performance in the opera "Joan at the Stake" was showered this week with flowers and gifts by her countrymen.

Hundreds of her admirers crowded outside Stockholm's opera to shout their appreciation. And Princess Sibylla and her daughters, the Princesses Margareta and Desiree, attended the performance, directed by Miss Bergman's husband, Roberto Rossellini, for whom she gave up her American husband and a Hollywood career.

The storm of criticism and approval, aroused by blistering press comments and what Miss Bergman called her "speech for the defense" in a curtain appearance Sunday night, has intrigued all Stockholm.

The newspaper Aftonbladet quoted Miss Bergman as saying "I will never come back to my native Sweden again," after some writers had called her opera "a circus" and a "promotion show."

A columnist for one pictorial weekly drew her particular ire by saying she was being "exhibited for money" by Rossellini.

Actor Edwin Adolphson, who was on stage when Miss Bergman answered her critics, denied she had said flatly she would never return to Sweden. What she said, according to Adolphson, was "do you think I will ever be able to return to Sweden after this?"

She said there was no truth to newspaper reports that she had been forced "to go from town to town, from country to country as an outlaw" after artistic failure of films directed by Rossellini and starring her.

'Gift Is a Gift' Says Linda, Keeping $132,000 Jewelry

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Linda Christian explained Thursday in an 80-page affidavit why she doesn't plan to return $132,500 worth of jewelry given her by Robert H. Schlesinger of Milwaukee. She summed it up in five words:

"A gift is a gift."

In the deposition, Tyrone Power's estranged wife told of accepting the jewelry from Schlesinger shortly after they met in New York last November.

The New York firm of Van Cleef and Arpels sued for return of the jewels last January, charging that a $100,000 cheque tendered by Schlesinger as part payment bounced.

Miss Christian said in the affidavit that she told Schlesinger that if he couldn't pay for the jewels his family had the means to help him. She said he gave her an imperial jade ring for her birthday, Nov. 17, in the bar of the Plaza Hotel. Later, he gave her earrings and a diamond bracelet, and on Christmas he presented a diamond necklace.

Miss Christian said Schlesinger never asked her to return the jewelry, but that after the litigation was started his family asked her to return them.

French Movie-Maker Elected Academician

PARIS (Reuters) — French author and movie-maker Jean Cocteau, 65, Thursday was elected to the French Academy, the "hall of fame" for the country's writers and artists. Cocteau's influence on French culture, particularly in literature and the art of films, is considered by many observers to have been the greatest of any post-war artist.

By BILL WALKER

The title of today's opus could be: How do you like your golf — over a crib board?

No further explanation needed, Bob Morrison has named his rep unit to meet Colwood's select six in that much - discussed challenge match at Colwood Club.

This is the bout that resulted from a few well-oiled words, issued by Vic Painter, that Colwood's top sextette could tie the can to any other team of amateur or professional golfers in the city.

Material benefits will go, in all likelihood, to those concerned. Some much so.

But to the other team of which Bob is captain.

Bob himself has dropped from the competition. Not that he wanted to abdicate. He never dodged a match like this in his life. But muscles have ruled otherwise. Bob slipped a disc in his back recently and had to slip into hospital to get mended. Now he's back on the job — "sitting down."

And so, not wanting to take a chance of missing later tournaments, notably the Times Island Open, he has declined active participation. Simply, he doesn't want to "get crocked again."

Luck o' the Draw

And here's the unit as Bob named it, John Merriman and George Bigelow being the most recent nominees. Morrison's team is first named.

Frank Scroggs of Uplands meets George Andrews of Colwood; Eric Hibberson meets Bill McColl.

Bigelow is matched against Vic Painter and Merriman against Jim Robertson.

Bob Fleming meets Bill Court and Hugh Morrison is drawn against Laurie Kerr.

That's the singles. For the four-ball, it's Scroggs and Hibberson against Andrews and McColl, Bigelow and Merriman against Painter and Robertson, Fleming and Hugh Morrison, against Court and Kerr.

In explanation, Bob, exercising his prerogative, named his partnerships. The Colwood opponents and issuers of the challenge were selected by a supervised draw. The hand belonged to yours truly. Complaints should be addressed to him. But no bets please.

The match, if you haven't heard, is billed for Colwood, March 20.

Entries are now being accepted for the Times Island Open, qualifying round at Victoria Club, March 27.

New Member Club

And now amid the snowflakes comes word that the Victoria and District Golf Association is now enlarged.

Application for membership has been received, and obviously will be accepted, from Cedar Hill.

Par for the course will be set when Vic Painter, in charge of such matters for the province, and Bill McColl, put their putters and slide rules to work sometime in the near future.

* * *

The button match is on again Sunday, the schedule says, but don't bet on it. Uplands has two or three inches of snow on the course and Gordon Verley and Laurie Carroll of Victoria Club, and Hugh Morrison and Doc Bigelow will likely have to make up another crib game instead.

* * *

Practice swings and ifi-had'tmissedthatputt department: Dr. Jack Calvert was quite pleased, and why not, with an eagle two on the 13th at Uplands recently. . . U.S. Open champ Ed Furgol has now caught up with his title. Within three years Ed should be set for life as it is said he'll soon be in charge of Dunlop's golf division. . . That's better than finishing four under par and getting $85.60 for the trouble which is what Ed did in one tourney this winter.

According to our figure filbert, Mike Souchak, the former footballer who hits the ball so far, it really is out of sight, on an average poke would overdrive Colwood's first hole. Little has been heard of the Bauer sisters lately, but that doesn't mean they're not in the news . . . Marlene has lost her admitted cockiness and is all business now. Last year she averaged 77.99 for 67 rounds and is regaining the confidence that was knocked out of her by the likes of Babe Zaharias, Louise Suggs and other gal gold grabbers . . . Jim Dalziel is reported leaving his post of secretary at Uplands with applications in order for a successor . . .

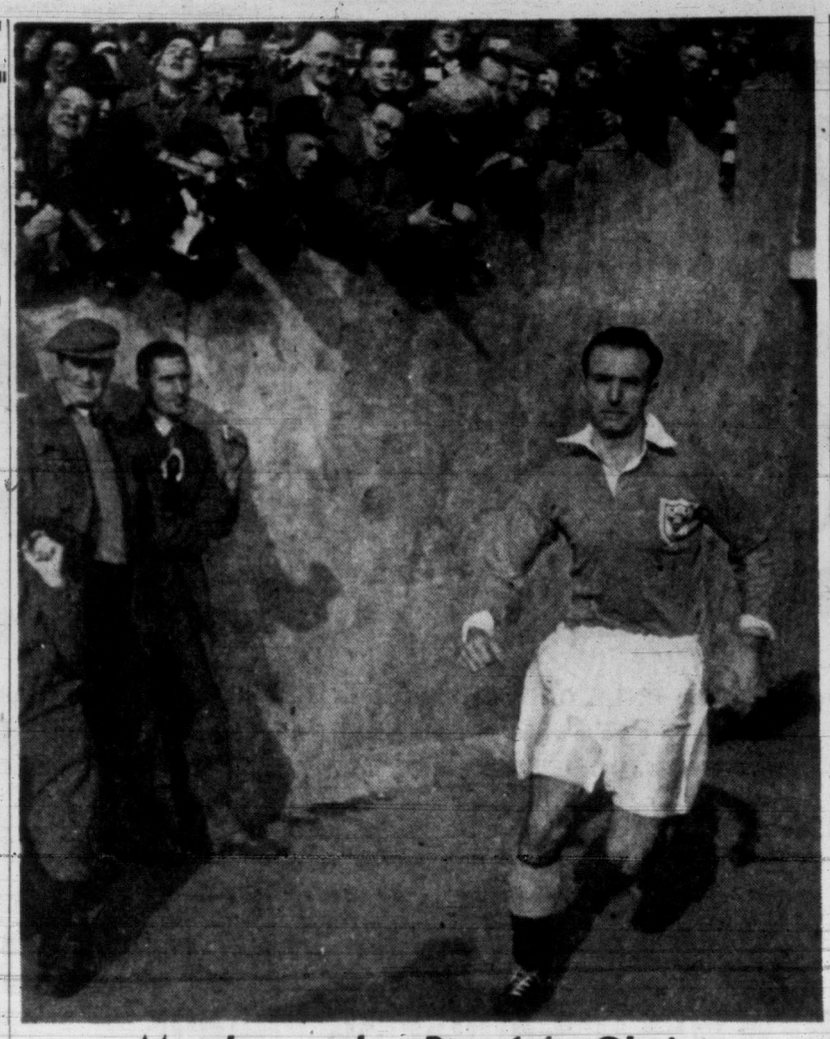
Short on equipment? Well, here's an advertisement by a U.S. golf firm.

"We supply everything a golfer uses except profanity."



Matthews—the People's Choice

In Montreal, the crowds roar when Maurice Richard skates onto the ice. In New York, Willie Mays and Yogi Berra are the heroes. But, in the ranks of Old Country soccer, there is one man who has a niche all of his own in the all-time Hall of Fame. Stanley Matthews, the ageless forward of the Blackpool club, is loved by every football fan in England. He is England's Mr. Football, in the classic tradition. Having reached his 40th birthday three weeks ago, Matthews is still regarded as a great scoring threat although his team is near the bottom of the First Division. (Mirrorpic.)

Royals Regain Fourth; Stamps Gain on Cougars

New Westminster 5, Edmonton 2; Calgary 5, Saskatoon 5

The on-again, off-again New Westminster Royals came to life before their hometown fans Thursday night to hand the pace-setting Edmonton Flyers a stinging 5-2 reversal and move back into the Western Hockey League's fourth and last playoff position.

Meanwhile at Saskatoon, the Quakers kept alive their slim chances of a playoff berth by holding Calgary Stampeders to a 5-5 draw. The Stampeders moved to within one point of the Cougars.

Gordon Fashoway scored two of the New Westminster goals, his 37th and 38th of the year; linemates Max McNab and Motto McLean added two more and Doug Adam got the other.

John Bucyk and Keith Allen scored for Edmonton with Bronco Horvath, the league's leading scorer, drawing assists on both, bringing his total to 95, six shy of the league record.

The victory, which moved Royals into fourth place a single point ahead of Vancouver, was expensive for the New Westminster sextet.

With 43 seconds to go in the second period, goalie Dave Gatherum tore a cartilage in his right knee as he pivoted to block a close-in drive. He will be sidelined for the remainder of the season. Lucien Dechene, finished the game.

At Saskatoon, Calgary was forced to pull goalie Doug Stevenson from the ice and send six men up front to force the tying goal.

Jim McFadden scored with only 28 seconds remaining to knot the count at 5-5. It was his second goal of the night.

Provincial Grid League Ruled Out

Rumors that two Victroia intermediate Canadian football teams plan to enter an intercity league with Vancouver and Kamloops are unfounded, according to Victoria Canadian Football Union president, Seth Halton.

In reply to a report from Vancouver, stating an intercity league would be formed under the guidance of the B.C. Lions professional club, Mr. Halton said, "We discussed the matter at some length but decided that it is not possible. The cost of travelling would be prohibitive. We hope to arrange one or two exhibition games with outside teams this year but we are not planning to enter a league with the mainland.

Although no league was formed, representatives of Victoria, Vancouver and Kamloops teams have formed a B.C. Football Union to govern all football in the province below the professional level.

COUGARS AT WORK

By BILL WALKER

The Hockey Numbers Game

You would have thought it was the numbers game:

"Four for us means seven for them.

"No; it's six and one-half, and five and one-half for Calgary."

"Yeh, and seven and one-half for Westminster."

"Bring out the sheet.

"There, it's seven."

"Yeh, you're right."

What was it? Just three of the Cougars, Thursday, figuring what it would take to get the club in second place for the Western Hockey League play-offs. That's all.

But the paper work.

General manager Fred Hutchinson had a sheaf of papers that reminded one of his income tax calculations.

Coach Billy Reay had a single sheet filled with figures.

Goalie Marcel Pelletier was going from memory. "I know my arithmetic," he explained.

The computations? They concerned, first of all, the relation of the Cougars to the Canucks, then to the Stamps and then to the Royals.

And so it now figures, it says here, methinks, that if the Cougars do nothing worse than split their remaining eight games the Canucks must win seven to beat the Cougars out of second place; the Stamps must win five and one-half and the Royals must do next to the impossible.

Marcel had some other figures too.

They concerned his part in the three-way race for goalie honors with Edmonton's Glen Hall and Vancouver's John Bower.

"It's 2.78, 2.836 and 2.838," he said.

And that statement represented the goals-against average per game of the three netminders Thursday with Hall leading and Marcel on the outside.

The obvious inference, apart from the suggestion that Mickey Keating hadn't got full credit for his three assists against Edmonton was that the Cougars had figures figured pretty fine.

But just how fine will be decided in part tonight in Vancouver where the Canucks host the Cougars. And then again here tomorrow night when the Canucks repay the compliment.

It could be progression; or regression, for someone.

Regression being the fact that in associated or correlated pairs, on selecting one number with a given value, the second has, on the average, a less value regressing toward the value for the mean of all members.

And so class is out.

Or would you rather play the numbers game?

(P.S.—Thursday night's results not included. That's the homework.)

Ivan Could Be Big Man In World Hockey Final

Penticton Goalie Shines; Red Captain Scouts V's

By ARCH MACKENZIE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

COLOGNE, Germany (CP)—When Canada and Russia meet in the payoff game of the world hockey championships Sunday, one of the big men going for Penticton V's will be a guy named Ivan.

Stature of Ivan McLelland, a stock young goaltender from South Porcupine, Ont., increased greatly Thursday night when the unbeaten V's shut out Sweden 3-0 for their sixth straight victory of the world hockey tournament.

McLelland made several spectacular saves to preserve the shutout, his third of the tournament. And he brought his goals-against average down to a remarkable .83.

For consistency no goalie in the nine-country tournament has been able to match his performance.

During one stretch he went 143 minutes and 53 seconds without allowing a goal. In another McLelland kept the opposition goal-less for 62 minutes and currently he is working on another sequence of almost 90 minutes of shutout hockey.

He has given up five goals in six games and only one in the last four to move ahead of Russia's Nikolai Putchkov, the leading goalie in last year's tournament.

Putchkov has allowed six goals in six games and chalked up two shutouts. The longest period he has gone without allowing a goal is 70 minutes. Last March in Stockholm he allowed 10 goals in seven tournament games.

This year there have been nine shutouts in the 26 games played so far. Lars Svensson, the Swedish goal-keeper, chalked up a pair and also turned in a fine job in holding the Russians to two goals. Jiri Hanzl of Czechoslovakia also has a pair of shutouts to his credit.

Although the Swedes weren't exactly pushovers for the Canadians, playing coach Grant Warwick had his boys slow up in the third period.

It was a clean, pleasing game before a capacity crowd of 7,000 in Krefeld's Rheinland-Halle.

STIFF RESISTANCE

The Swedes put up stiff resistance for the first 30 minutes, holding the Canadians scoreless. Hal Tarala took a pass from Dick Warwick and slammed in a blue-line drive a foot off the ice to put the Canadians ahead at 11.33 of the second period.

Jack McIntyre and Grant Warwick quickly added insurance goals. For McIntyre it was his seventh of the tournament.

The Canadians and the Soviets have a free day Saturday before they meet at Krefeld at 5 p.m. (10 a.m. CST) Sunday. The game has been sold out for months.

Russia, playing without their star forward, team captain Vsevolod Bobrov, also remained unbeaten as they humbled Germany 5-1 at Duesseldorf Thursday night. Bobrov took the day off to scout the Canadians.

Beating the Americans only made the Russians "one-half happy," the official said. "We must defeat the Canadians Sunday and that would make us all the way happy."

Premier Wishes V's Well

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today officially wished the Penticton V's well on behalf of the province in V's bid to regain the World Hockey Championships for Canada from defending champion Russia.

The premier's message follows:

"I have watched the Penticton V's climb and thrilled with all other British Columbians to their successes. Through all your tests, however, what I have appreciated more than the skill and courage always displayed is the teamwork and the sportsmanship so ably demonstrated.

"British Columbia, Canada . . . sports-minded people everywhere in the world . . . will be watching your next big test. We are all confident of your ability to win, but however the breaks may go, I know that we at home will be proudly represented and that the traditions of the great game and of true sport will be upheld. I know, too that the people of Penticton, the Valley and the province, appreciating what you have already done for them in their name, are wishing you the best of luck.

"Go out and win!"

CANADIAN NEWSMEN MAY PAY THROUGH NOSE

KREFIELD (BUP)—Thirty desperate Canadian newspapermen probably will draw lots Sunday to find out which of them will get the eight passes allocated by the organizers of the World Championships to Canadian newsmen for the March 6 Canada-Russia match.

The Canadians have suggested buying spectator tickets, but the organizers are at a loss since the stadium has long been sold out for the game which undoubtedly will decide the championship.

Latest black market price for tickets for Sunday's game is around $100 each.

HABS, WINGS WIN

Howe Finally Breaks Loose

Detroit 6, Chicago 1; Montreal 4, Boston 1

By JIM BASTABLE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Gordon Howe cast off the weight of a scoring slump with the class that has made him one of hockey's greatest players. But it may have come too late in his drive for a trophy he has gobbled up for the last four years.

The ace rightwinger scored three goals in the third period Thursday night to lead the second-place Detroit Red Wings to a 6-1 National Hockey League rout over Chicago Black Hawks.

It was Gordie's outstanding accomplishment of the 1954-55 campaign, a reminder of his magnificent scoring performances of a couple of years ago. It was his first three-goal effort of the season and the first time he has scored in 10 games.

That Howe would break out of the slump was inevitable, but the three goals and an assist ran his point total to only 53, far off the pace for the league's individual scoring crown.

While the 26-year-old forward was proving to 10,695 fans at Detroit Olympia that he still has the touch, Beliveau was scoring two goals to pace the league-leading Montrealers to a 4-1 win over the fourth-place Bruins at Boston.

U.S. Puck Team Feels Ire of Russian Press

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio Thursday accused the United States hockey team of "playing a rough game and often violating the rules" in the world championship match against Russia in Krefeld, Germany, Wednesday night.

Russia, reigning world champions, defeated the United States 3-0 and shares top place in the tournament standing with Canada.

Moscow radio claimed the spectators "warmly acclaimed the good and correct game of the Soviet hockey players. At the same time the rough game of the American athletes more than once evoked considerable indignation from the spectators."

The broadcast said in the middle of the third period a United States hockey player "hit the hand of the attacking member of the Soviet team, Babich, with his hockey stick." Babich could not continue playing because of the injury.

Western sports writers said Babich was injured when John Crocott of Melrose, Mass., swung a stick overhead and crashed it unintentionally on the Russian's raised arm.

Swedes 'Toughest' Yet Admits Grant Warwick

KREFELD, Germany (BUP) —Grant Warwick, player-coach of the Penticton V's, said Sweden gave his Canadians the toughest game they have played so far Thursday at the world ice hockey tournament. The V's won, 3-0.

"The Swedes are the toughest team we have met so far," Warwick said. "They had us worried plenty."

Asked whether he and his men played at full speed, he replied: "We got three goals in a little over three minutes. That's all we needed."

Warwick said the game was fairly and cleanly played and that none of the V's suffered any injuries. He also paid tribute to the two Swiss officials who handled the game.

"Hauser and Mueller are among the few European referees who know what a body check is like," he said.

Jim Middleton, one of the two substitutes who arrived today to bolster the Canadian squad, said, "I like European style hockey. It was a clean game but not in the sissy way."

Lull Johansson, a Swedish player who watched the Canadian-Swedish game from the grandstand, wasn't impressed by the V's.

"We deserved at least one goal," Johansson said. "Our defense was good. The Canadians did not give a convincing performance with the exception of the second period when they got their goals.

"I would like to know whether they showed everything they had. They did impress me by their fair play. Apparently they have turned themselves up to the European style."

ONE QUALITY - THE BEST

On The

OUTDOOR FRONT

With DENNY BOYD

A wide sweep of the hat today goes to three of our top gunslingers—Jack Roach, Dib Noble and Hughie Newman.

This trio brought a lot of credit to Victoria Thursday when they were named to places on the B.C. all-star trap and skeet teams.

Jack was named runner-up in the provincial trap ratings, behind Vancouver's Frank Opsal; Dib was named to a spot on the skeet all-star team, and Newman received honorable mention in the skeet selections.

Deadpan Jack Roach, a nerveless shooter who shoots best under the kind of pressure that makes lesser men crack up, had a 97 average in singles, an 86.75 mark in handicap shooting and an 81.60 average in doubles. Jack topped all-around champion Opsal in singles, trailed him in handicap and led him in doubles.

Boyd

Roach has been shooting competitively for about eight years now and has won the B.C. Trap Championship. He probably hit his peak last year in the Pacific Grand Championships at Spokane. In competition with the greatest shots in the nation, Jack broke 200 straight birds as he triggered his way to the Grand Pacific Class A title. A fine, all-around sport, Jack is an ardent hunter and fisherman.

Dib Noble is the popular president of the Victoria Gun Club and his selection to the skeet all-star team will make a lot of people happy because Dib has always been close to the top without quite cracking the champion's circle.

Last year, in the B.C. Skeet Championships, Dib broke 147 of 150 birds, but lost out by a single bird. He has never won any major laurels but has always been a consistent shot, within the top four or five of any competition. He shoots some trap but excels in skeet.

This year Dib had a 96 average in 12-gauge shooting and an 88 mark in 20-gauge.

Hughie Newman is a comparative newcomer to local skeet shooting, but is regarded as a great threat for the future. He had one of the top 12-gauge averages in the province, a 97 mark, but did not take part in the 20-gauge or .410 bore competitions.

From the Cowichan River, guide Art Hancock reports a successful trout opening this week, in spite of the worst kind of weather.

His teeth still chattering slightly, Art reported that two of the first anglers out on the river on Tuesday, opening day, were from Vancouver. Fishing red flies on the river bottom, the pair took 15 trout the first day out and picked up 16 trout and one steelhead the next day.

The fish, running from 1½ to 3 pounds, were mostly rainbows. Some of them were dark, having just come off the spawning beds.

Westcott Surprises In Shuttle Tourney

MONTREAL (BUP) — Veteran Bev Westcott of Toronto pegged himself as the dark horse of the 1955 Canadian badminton championships today after upsetting fourth-seeded Gordon Simpson of Montreal Thursday night at the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association clubhouse.

Westcott, who has been flailing the badminton bird for 19 of his 29 years, ousted the Quebec provincial champion, 15-11, 15-7 to enter the semifinal round along with the first three seeded players. Don Smythe, seeking his fourth straight Dominion title, Daryl Thompson and Dave McTaggart, both of Vancouver, all advanced easily to the round of four.

Marg Shedd, the southpaw two-time champ, appeared headed for her third women's title as she entered the semifinals along with three other seeded women.

Smythe, a 29-year-old Torontonian, polished off Bill Fergus, 22, of Vancouver, in just 20 minutes, winning 15-7, 15-5. Second-seeded Thompson, a bespectacled 30-year-old, used his long reach and sharp baseline placements to wear down Jack Muir, Toronto, 15-9, 15-11 in quarter-final action last night. McTaggart tabbed himself as an outside threat to Smythe's crown with a sparkling victory over Martin Semple of Montreal.

Miss Waring is in a good position to be the first player to win both junior and senior titles in the same year. The Calgary youngster stamped herself as the gal to watch in the senior ladies' division following a 12-10, 11-3 victory over Joan Hennessy of Toronto.

NET FINALS

QUEBEC (CP) — The Canadian tennis championships, held for the last three years in Toronto, will be staged in Quebec City this year, a Quebec City tennis club announced Thursday.

Determine Enters San Juan 'Cap

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Andy Crevolin's little grey horse, Determine, took a gallop over the grass course at Santa Anita Park Thursday, appeared to like it and will be a definite starter in the $100,000 added San Juan Capistrano handicap Saturday.

So once again the Santa Anita Maturity and Kentucky Derby winner will go postward as the high weight in the field. Determine goes with 126 pounds aboard, including rider Ray York.

Last week Determine shouldered 129 pounds in the rich Santa Anita Handicap at 1¼ miles. He finished a game but futile fourth.

The San Juan Capistrano will be raced over the El Camino Real turf course at about 1¾ miles.

H. H. Helbush's chestnut Irish colt, Poona II, winner of the Santa Anita while carrying a slip of 113 pounds, is a candidate for the San Juan, and the critics are still arguing over his bid for the label of greatness.

Poona II comes up this week with 122 pounds and the question remains to be seen whether he can carry this weight at the longer distance.

Trade Winds Hit Majors

By British United Press

Those March winds are turning into trade winds for the baseball teams in the south with as many as seven major league clubs suddenly back in the player market.

Star third baseman Eddie Yost of the Washington Senators was reportedly being offered around, with both the Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles very much interested; meanwhile, the Cincinnati Redlegs were conferring with Pittsburgh and the Dodgers were warming up their trade talks with the Phillies.

General managers Gabe Paul of Cincinnati and Branch Rickey of Pittsburgh put their heads together in a long confab at Fort Myers, Fla. No announcement was made, but there was speculation the Redlegs were interested in Pirate pitchers Vernon Law, Bob Friend, and Dick Littlefield, who won a total of 26 games for the last-place Pirates last season.

The Dodgers and Phils, who conferred several times during the winter without reaching an agreement, were reported back at it again, the Dodgers seeking a pitcher or a left fielder with Junior Gilliam as their chief trade bait.

AWAIT WORD

Meanwhile, the Boston Red Sox were waiting anxiously to hear from star outfielder Ted Williams who promised a final "yes or no" on whether he would play this season "late this week." While waiting, they signed their last holdout, catcher Sammy White, giving him a salary boost in exchange for a promise not to play basketball during the winter.

In other camps: Coach Jim Turner of the Yankees worked with speed-baller Bob Turley in an attempt to cure his wildness; the Dodgers fined Sandy Amoros $100 for reporting two days late because, he said, he got lost driving 140 miles; the Cardinals expected last arrival, rookie pitcher Luis Arroyo, today; infielder Roy Smalley was the top performer in the Milwaukee Braves' workout; manager Lou Boudreau of Kansas City praised rookie pitcher Art Ceccarelli, a 15-game winner drafted from Birmingham; Mayo Smith, manager of the Phillies, was impressed by rookie outfielders Bob Bowman and Lawrence Novak.

MICHAELS' FUTURE IN DOUBT

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Time will tell whether the big league baseball career of Cass Michaels, 29, Chicago White Sox second baseman, has been ended by a beaning he suffered last Aug. 27.

Michaels collapsed during Tuesday's White Sox workout in 78-degree weather. Shagging flies, Michaels was seized with dizziness for the second straight day. In the club house afterwards, he blacked out and mumbled incoherently.

Michaels was in a Philadelphia hospital for nearly a month last year when he suffered a double skull fracture in being hit on the head by a ball thrown by Marion Fricano of the Athletics.

BATON ROUGE, La. (BUP)—A heavy field set out today to catch leader Walter Romans in the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open and it was still anybody's tournament with 20 pros four strokes or less off the pace.

Five others were breathing down their necks at 67, five at 68 and seven at 69.

BODIES CRIMPED BY ACCIDENTS

Two 'Working Stiffs' Build Dream Home

By PETE LOUDON

"You take the high nails and I'll take the low nails," sing Ron and Jeanette Mason, 4056 Pipeline Road, while completing their dream home.

This routine is necessary because Ron can't easily get up from his hands and knees and Jeanette doesnt unbend at all.

He is bound by a steel brace, a souvenier of the Second World War, and she is in a plaster body cast from a recent accident.

But like Jack Spratt and his mate, they're doing a complete job between them. Veterans' Land Act officials, neighbors and post office employees who work nights with Ron chip in the little extras.

These two self-styled "working stiffs" have proven that any young couple with enough backbone can build their own house Actually, Ron doesn't have all of his spine. They took a disc out of his vertabrae 14 months ago and he's tied up for life. Jeanette hopes to be out of her plaster cocoon in three weeks.

Their trouble started when four-and-a-half tons of Bren gun carrier tractored over Ron in a muddy English army camp in 1941. He says when they picked him out of the mud (which saved his life) the matter was as broad as it is long. He got a permanent crimp in his frame, but nothing could hurt his spirit.

Laugh Off Their Hardships

Both he and Jeanette laugh off their hardships. They broke off their story to engage in a snowball fight this morning. "You're looking for trouble," said Ron when Jeanette crowned him.

They laugh and romp, as best they can, as if they've never known trouble. The opposite is true. But they tell it in such a way that a broken leg sounds like a good joke.

After three months on his back, Ron was labeled "cured" and landed in North Africa in time for the Sicily jump-off. He went into Italy driving a truck and was enjoying the ride to Cassino when he rolled over a German mine. He said he brushed the olive branches out of his hair and decided to look for another truck. But the next day he couldn't get out of bed. That was in 1943.

Since then he has been in almost constant pain which he grades from low to high. Invalided home he was an outpatient in Shaughnessy Hospital when he married Jeanette, a girl he went to school with in Victoria.

They settled here and Ron began work at the Post Office. By breaking his leg twice more he ran his cast time up to three years. He got his heavy brace in 1947. He also got a 45 per cent disability pension.

He got a half-acre on Pipeline Road and while he was mending, Jeanette and her father threw up a three-room cabin. It was a four-room cabin but recently the ceiling collapsed in one room due to leaks. Their family grew to include Kenneth, 9; Sheryl, 7; Donna, 3, an Alsation named Dusty and a bloodhound named Kim.

Ron figures he lost $2,000 of his scarce capital to paying off the stork, losing time for treatments and what-have-you. He finally decided he could start a house under VLA in 1949.

It was a blow to learn that unless he was 50 per cent disabled, he needed two or three acres, not half an acre, to meet DVA requirements for a loan. VLA officials said they were determined to help Ron even if they had to break his other leg. But fate stepped in.

An operation in December 1953 took a disc from his back and bumped his disability claim up to 55 per cent. Now his hips would hardly bend, but he could get permission to build under VLA on his small lot. Even baby Sheryl's recurring attacks of virus pneumonia, every one of her three winters, didn't stop him this time.

The kids needed a dry house. He got his loan, $6,625, repayable in part, at $28 a month. He got the cement in and the floor joists. Friends and neighbors helped along with Jeanette and the youngsters who picked up nails and distributed them when called for.

Ron traded a garden tractor for labor and got the exterior finished. He contracted for plumbing, roofing and plastering, which is now under way. He and Jeanette did the lathing. Erect on a scaffolding, Ron held the sheets with his head while Jeanette drove the nails. They were their own electricians.

Then, two months ago, Jeanette bent over and couldn't straighten up again. The heavy work she'd undertaken to spare Ron, while looking after her children at the same time, caused an old injury to react. She fell from a horse 14 years ago. Now a disc was displaced in her back.

Sheathed in plaster she got out of hospital three weeks later and reported for work. No one will be carried over the threshold, but the couple plan to move in by the end of April.

Ron figures he has put up $2,500 of his own money. The VLA's $6,$25 meant the total cost would run around $8,500. He has a five-and-a-half-room modern home that couldn't be bought for $12,000 on the market today. He installed hot water heating, himself.

VLA inspectors are tough, but they're also kindly. VLA regional supervisor, George Chatterton, and construction supervisor, Bert Wheeler, don't argue with a vet when he says, "I can't . . ." They just point to Ron and Jeanette.

Sinclair Plans Trip to Moscow For Conference

17 Nations Talk Whaling Problems

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Hon. James Sinclair, minister of fisheries, will go to Russia early next July to attend the annual meeting of the International Whaling Commission to be held in Moscow.

The international conference will be the first non-political gathering to be convened in Moscow since the Second World War. Representatives of the 17 member nations of the commission will attend the meeting July 18.

The last annual meeting was held in Tokyo in July, 1954.

The Canadian minister will be the only fisheries minister of cabinet rank to attend the Moscow meeting other than Russia's minister of fisheries.

The whaling commission meets annually to consider measures for the conservation and protection of the remaining whaling stock in the whaling areas of the world. The major whaling operations take part in the Antarctic and the quotas are established for the catching of whales in that area.

Canadian whaling operations are confined to the Pacific, with some whaling done off Newfoundland and in the north off Churchill. A small whaling station operates at Churchill, but the largest whaling station in Canada is operated at the west coast.

The nations that are members of the International Whaling Commission include Canada, United States, U.S.S.R., United Kingdom, Norway, Iceland, Denmark, Holland, Australia, South Africa, Japan, France, Brazil, New Zealand, Sweden, Panama and Mexico.

PUB BUSINESS HIT BY TV IN BRITAIN

TAVERHAM, Eng. (Reuters) — Thirty-five tavern keepers here have won official permission to keep their bars open an extra half-hour at night "to counteract the effects of television."

Officials told them they could stay open until 10.30 p.m. after they complained that television was luring customers away or keeping them at home until it was too late to go out drinking.

Even bars which installed television had difficulties because they had to turn out customers before the end of television plays.

Lawyer Charges PUC Head 'Biased' in BCE Fare Boosts

VANCOUVER (CP)—Counsel for the City of Vancouver told the B.C. Appeal Court Thursday that there was a suggestion the chairman of the Public Utilities Commission was "biased" regarding the fare increase granted B.C. Electric Company last November.

Vancouver and neighboring municipalities are appealing the fare boost and have asked the court to throw out the PUC order granting the increases. In Vancouver the order boosted fares from four rides for 50 cents to five rides for 75 cents.

T. G. Norris, in his third day of argument, said in perusing the proceedings before the PUC, he couldn't "find anywhere that the chairman made any ruling against the company."

But he said the chairman, Percy George of Victoria, made rulings against the other parties opposing the increases.

"It seems a strange proceeding where one side is always right, and the other side is wrong."

He said in view of the PUC's wide powers, it should "lean over backward to give every opportunity for everyone involved to be heard."

He said the "attitude of the chairman amounted to a denial of justice."

The hearing is continuing.

Larry Henderson Named Commandant

A former Victoria man has been named commandant of the infantry camp at Sarcee, July 9 to 16.

He is Brigadier Larry S. Henderson, now of Vancouver, who commands 25 Militia Group.

Brigadier-major of the camp will be Major A. M. MacLeod, also of Victoria. Another city officer, Major W. G. Beevers, will be DAA and QMG of the artillery camp to be held at Sarcee, July 16 to 23.

The officers will leave this afternoon for a conference in Calgary on camp arrangements.

Members of the Canadian Scottish Regiment from here are expected to attend the one-week field training period in force.

What's news at Inco?

THE BEAM OF A POLICE OFFICER'S FLASHLIGHT picks out a burglar who has been caught by sound waves he couldn't hear. These sound waves are sent out by the Alertronic Alarm —a new device in which small rods of nickel play a vital part.

INCO NICKEL RODS SET OFF ALARM BUT BURGLARS CANNOT HEAR IT

IN THE DEAD OF THE NIGHT a burglar is stuffing silver into a bag. Suddenly he is pinned in the glare of a flashlight. The police have him . . . trapped by a sound he couldn't hear. The Alertronic Alarm has done its job.

The heart of this device is two slender rods of pure nickel that change their length when magnetized, causing a diaphragm to vibrate and send out sound waves so high-pitched they cannot be heard by human ears. But the slightest movement by an intruder disturbs the sound waves and sets off the alarm.

Inco research and development teams in cooperation with industry have been in the forefront of the world's metallurgical developments since 1921. The knowledge and experience gained are among Inco's greatest assets. Inco research points the way to Inco's future!

Nickel helps report fires

Even the heat of a wad of paper smoldering in an ashtray will disturb the sound waves and set off the Alertronic Alarm.

It also drives mice crazy

So high-pitched are the sound waves that mice—who can hear them—are driven to an insane helter-skelter dash for safety.

This is only one of hundreds of uses of ultra-sonic waves—uses that range from finding fish in the sea to aging cheese.

B.C. Jobs Assured In Frobisher Project

B.C. workmen and contractors will be employed on the vast Frobisher-Ventures development in northern B.C., Lands and Forests Minister R. E. Sommers assured the Legislature Thursday.

Mr. Sommers said there is "a definite understanding" on the question between the government and Frobisher. He said the same understanding exists on the Kaiser dam proposal.

The minister also told the House that "where any flooding must take place, the land must be cleared" in future developments.

"There will be no repetition of the Alcan fiasco," Mr. Sommers said. He was referring to the flooding of timber on Ootsa Lake caused by construction of the Kenney dam.

Lions Largest Service Club, Says Governor

LADYSMITH — Members of the local Lions Club heard a talk this week on the origin and growth of Lions International when district governor Wilfred Munton of West Vancouver paid a surprise visit to the club here.

Mr. Munton said that, despite the fact it was one of the younger service clubs, Lions International now is twice as big as the next two largest service clubs combined.

During his visit the district governor inducted Ken Jones, a public works engineer now stationed here, into membership in the club.

Next Tuesday members of the local club will take a traveling gavel to the Langford club.

Members were informed that attendance in the Ladysmith club has averaged 85 per cent, to put it well up among the clubs of the district.

OAK BAY'S 50TH BIRTHDAY NEXT YEAR

Oak Bay's corporate memory was jogged Thursday night by Municipal Engineer A. S. Musgrave who reminded Reeve and councillors that "our municipality was incorporated on July 2, 1906."

Mr. Musgrave suggested some advance preparations would be in order to plan a proper celebrate of the 50th anniversary.

Councillor Pat. Birley, an architect by profession, suggested one way would be to dedicate a new Municipal Hall.

ROVING COMMISSION — Provincial government travel bureau assistant commissioner Arthur R. Peers leaves soon as "roving commissioner" for the bureau and Alberta counterpart in 11 western states. He expects to travel up to 30,000 miles yearly in new post; will sell boards of trade and other groups on benefits of travel in B.C., Alberta.

5 Lost Loggers Found Drowned Near B.C. Camp

Stave Lake Tragedy Inquest March 10

MISSION (BUP) — An inquest was set today for March 10 into the deaths of five loggers whose bodies were found in Stave Lake, 40 miles east of Vancouver, 24 hours after searchers found their capsized launch.

They perished when their small cabin cruiser apparently foundered Tuesday only 100 yards from their destination.

The dead: Cornelius Gerbrandt, 54; his two sons, Jacob, 27, and Peter, 29; Jake Friesen, 27, and Isaac Klassen, 48.

The men, returning to a shake-cutting camp after a winter layoff, vanished with their 20-foot boat during a 20-mile trip up the lake.

The empty cruiser was found washed ashore Wednesday.

"A mattress, oil cans and other debris were found near the boat about 100 yards from the camp," said an RCMP officer, who directed the hunt.

The loggers' cruiser is believed to have capsized after striking a deadhead log float amid chunks of ice. The boat had a hole in the bow.

The men were all strong swimmers, but an RCMP officer said: "No man could live in those waters."

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Florence Walsh, 48, well-known elementary school teacher here, died Thursday in hospital. Billy Graham Draws 1,000 to Altar At Jammed Revival in 'Tough' N.Y.

NEW YORK (UP) — Huge crowds jammed Madison Square Garden and overflowed into the streets outside Thursday night to hear Evangelist Billy Graham at his first major religious rally in crime-plagued New York.

The intense young revivalist preached his doctrine of return to God to an estimated 19,700 persons who packed the Garden's great arena. Between 5,000 and 8,000 others stood quietly in a chilly rain outside to hear his words over a loudspeaker.

Special police details, including 80 patrolmen and 25 mounted police, were assigned to direct the tremendous but orderly throng. Buses carrying groups from upstate New York, Connecticut and New Jersey formed a five-block line bordering Ninth Avenue.

At the end of Graham's simple, half-hour sermon an estimated 1,000 persons responded to his "call to the altar," a public declaration of faith. It was an overwhelming success for the young minister, who had described New York as a "tough town" for religion.

"There is something wrong with man," Graham said, "that makes him hate, cheat, steal and enter into sin. Crime is rampant, juvenile delinquency is out of hand and church attendance is down — a religious revival is needed."

Graham noted that both President Eisenhower and Winston Churchill have declared the world's salvation lies in such a revival.

"We'd better get started," he said.

Despite the size of the crowd, the Garden—usually the scene of sports events — was free of the cigarette smoke which generally clouds the air. Though the audience included many teen-agers and soldiers, no one lighted cigarettes.

The Royal Canadian Signals operates a huge nerve network, which stretches halfway round the world. For Signals ties the far flung elements of our Army into a smoothly co-ordinated fighting team.

Signals trains its own soldier-specialists in all phases of modern communications. It offers fine careers for men who want to learn its many skills . . . who want to share in proud traditions and vital work.

Radio mechanics are the trouble shooters of Signals. Their repair work calls for training in the basic theory and practice of radio and electronics.

A job for men with quick minds, sensitive fingers and an eagerness to understand basic electronics. The radio telegraphist is trained to send and receive coded messages.

Rugged nerves and nimble feet are the requirements for the lineman, who does his job forty feet in the air. He is trained to construct cable and wire systems.

The despatch rider is a tough, sharp-eyed messenger with an instinct for the right direction and the courage to take it. Trained in map reading and in basic mechanics.

Out in the field goes the radio operator, supplying communications for a fast-moving army. Trained in the rapid dispatching of tactical messages.

The switchboard operator is the keystone of the military telephone system . . . a sort of Signals pivot man. Trained to handle calls and information quickly and efficiently.

Too Many Babies

What's your view? According to Dr. Brock Chisholm, one - time federal Deputy Minister of Health and for seven years director - general of the World Health Organization of the U.N. and now a resident of Victoria, many of those little bundles of joy are not wanted as the world faces a most serious over-population problem. He believes the only way to overcome this disaster is to regulate families. What will the reaction of the people be to this statement? Don't miss reading this controversial article and many other features in our Weekend Magazine.

She's the Life of the PARTY LINE!

The most popular woman in Russell, Ontario, is undoubtedly Miss Florence Booth, chief telephone operator. For 38 years she has been busy with her party line switchboard and not only does she put through calls but gives advice, news and help in a variety of ways. Eventually when the dial phone replaces "Operator" the community will miss the chummy atmosphere of the Russell exchange. Her story with photos appears in our Weekend Magazine.

Trials and Tribulations

An offspring from a broken home and a well-meaning maiden aunt have a hard time understanding each other in our fiction choice, "The Child," by Roberta Engle Peters. Our short story, "You Aren't Wise Often," by Robert Cormier, tells of a man's meeting with a woman ten years after she sent him a "Dear John" letter.

MacKenzie and RED "TRUTH"

After two years in Red hands, S/L Andy MacKenzie agreed to write out a confession. This, however, had to be written and re-written until it suited his captors. In the fourth and last instalment told by him exclusively to Weekend Magazine, he tells of the end of his solitary confinement after 465 days and of his sudden welcome release.

How to Live on $18,000

In Canada to spend $18,000 a year to live would seem like a small fortune but to a typical Canadian family living in Venezuela it costs just that without any luxury. Due to inflation it takes about $1,500 to break even each month. The family, however, love the life, the people and the climate. Read their interesting story written by Frank Lowe in our Weekend Magazine.

Writer Beats "Rocket"

Long ago sports writers ran out of adjectives to describe the fabulous "Rocket" Richard, star of Montreal Canadiens. In his sports column this week Andy O'Brien writes about the classy adjectives literary longhairs have used about Richard and quotes some snappy examples.

Our Famous Fish

Some interesting and appetizing ways of preparing and cooking fish are provided by Helen Gougeon, Women's Editor. These tasty dishes will add to your Lenten diet.

For Tall or Short

The best line to suit your particular type of figure is discussed by Elizabeth Wood in her better grooming column. She gives "whys and wherefores" for the tall and thin, short and full and hints on covering bad points.

I Want My Son!

A new movie, "The Divided Heart," is based on the true life story of a Yugoslav boy adopted by a German woman (played by Cornell Borchers), who was later forced to give him up to his real mother. Watch for our photos. Many of the scenes were shot in Yugoslavia and Austria.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The irregular monthly meeting of the Save Ripple Rock Association was held recently.

(Note: "Irregular" is not a misprint. Everything about the Save Ripple Rock Association is irregular, including the regular meetings).

The president was in the chair although he had the floor most of the evening, as the meeting was at the president's home and it was his turn to do the waxing and polishing.

Minutes of the previous meeting were not read, as the membership felt it would be silly to spend an hour listening to a minute.

The treasurer's report was also dispensed with, as there is no money in the treasury, no treasury, and, in fact, no treasurer.

Thus the meeting was able to proceed immediately to the business at hand, this being a minority report from the newest member.

The newest member said he felt the association was a Good Thing, but that Haste should be Made Slowly. He believed in Getting Things Done, he said, but on the Other Hand there were Factors to be Considered.

The newest member ventured to state that no man could Hold a Candle to him when it came to Decisive Action, but if it were true that to Think is to Act, had we not better Consider Every Aspect before Activating a New Approach?

The newest member then suggested we should Put Our House in Order before appealing to the Public at Large for Large Scale Action.

He believed, he said, that we should start on a Small Scale.

Before we urge the government to Not Remove Ripple Rock, he asked, should we not urge them to Not Remove something a little smaller?

Asked where he thought the Association should start its Not Removement, the newest member said he had worked out a Long Range Plan of Not Removement which would gradually lead us to Outstanding Stature as the greatest Not Removement of all time.

The newest member went on to suggest the Association first seek Public Support for Not Removing Glimpse Reef.

We could then go on to Greater Things, he said; we could launch a campaign to Save Pelly Island, followed by one to Save Brotchie Ledge.

We could continue, he said, by Saving Trial Island and Race Rocks, until, seasoned by Years of Experience and Trial by Error, we would be ready to Save Ripple Rock.

The newest member's remarks completely floored the other members, especially the president, who slipped on a board he had recently waxed.

Light refreshments were then served, followed by a recorded pianoforte concert by F. Waller, and the meeting adjourned, all members stating they had had a most enjoyable evening.

FROZEN LANDSCAPE above is not on Hudson Bay, but at 1,200-foot summit at Malahat. Public works crews piled snow up to three feet high in windrows as they worked around clock to keep highway clear during week-long "winter." More snow is expected on scenic drive on week-end as wet, warm air drives cold back to mainland. Total of two feet has fallen to date on Malahat. (Flett Studio Photo.)

Harrison Threatens Police Cut

Economy Drive Aims To Hold Tax Line

City budget slashing may result in staff cuts in the Victoria police force and a reduction in the number of police vehicles now in service, it was indicated today by Mayor Claude Harrison.

In a budget interview today the mayor said he was in favor of decreasing the force and would look further into the car question.

He announced that every phase of city expenditure will be subject to an all-out drive to cut estimates and head off a tax-rate hike.

NO MORE

"I'm not going to have that rate go up," he told reporters. "I'm going to cut it and keep cutting it, until it goes down. Victoria taxpayers are not going to pay any more."

His protests against increasing costs were directed mainly at police and fire services. Quoting from figures supplied by the Federation of Mayor and Municipalities, a national body, he said Victoria has the highest-paid fire department in Canada with exception of Vancouver.

He said Victoria has more police than any city the same size anywhere in Canada and added that the deputy chief here is paid more than a deputy chief in Calgary and Windsor, cities of much greater size.

He said where Victoria has 93 police for population of 53,000, St. John's, Saskatoon and Burnaby have less officers. He quoted the municipality of East York where 34 men police a population of 64,000.

Etobicoke township in Ontario has 72 men for a comparable population to Victoria, 52,000. Regina has the same-size force as Victoria for a population of 71,000.

The city and the police union are at present awaiting a conciliation officer's report on a wage dispute. The men had asked 10 per cent more and the city had asked for a wage cut.

Private Firm May Take Over City Lighting

$12,000 Annual Savings Promised In $75,000 Bill by Mainlanders

By PETE LOUDON

A move to transfer maintenance of Victoria street lighting system to a private contractor has been under discussion at City Hall, it was learned today.

A large mainland contracting firm has promised a saving to city taxpayers of from $12,000 to $15,000 a year. If the city accepts the bid, the company would reportedly hire a majority of city workmen currently employed on that job.

City officials have met with company representatives for preliminary discussions and a report is expected to be made to council. Next council meeting is March 10.

AUTOMATIC "PILOT"

One innovation suggested during preliminary talks is installation of an automatic devise for turning lights on and off.

At present it costs the city in the neighborhood of $10,000 a year for that service alone. Three men are on 24-hour attendance at main circuit switches to cope with sudden emergency.

The automatic devise, which would work by presence or absence of sunlight, would cost about $10,000 and would pay for itself in one year.

If the city were released of street lighting maintenance, it is considered likely that city electrical engineer Kenneth Reid would be freed to take over the entire city electrical planning. This would speed up electrical inspection of new constructions.

Street lighting in Victoria costs the city now close to $75,000 annually.

$4,700 COLLECTED FOR RED CROSS

Red Cross campaign totals reached $4,700 by noon today. Cold weather is still slowing the progress of some 600 volunteer canvassers. The local branch seeks to raise $74,000 by the end of March.

Two Plead Guilty To Stealing Coats

Two cases of coat-stealing were before Magistrate Henry C. Hall in city police court today.

Eighteen-year-old Lois Rohe was remanded to Wednesday for sentence when she pleaded guilty to stealing a cloth coat from a cloakroom at the Metropolitan Store, Douglas Street, on March 1.

Twenty-one-year-old Edward Dowse was remanded to the same day, also for sentence, when he admitted taking a fur coat from CAC Gardens, Fisgard Street, on February 27.

Marine Set for Juan de Fuca Practice Swim

Bert O. Thomas said in Tacoma today a heavy snowfall will not deter him from making a two-mile swim across Commencement Bay on Saturday.

Thomas is planning the "warm-up" swim to prepare him for an assault this spring on the Strait of Juan de Fuca, from Victoria to Port Angeles.

Last year America's premier distance swimmer, Florence Chadwick, failed to negotiate the treacherous tides and currents of the strait and had to give up about five miles out from Victoria.

The distance swimmer says he is in the finest condition of his life. He hopes to swim across the bay in a little over an hour.

House May Sit Three Times Daily

MLA's are faced with the possibility of three sittings a day next week.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today filed notice of motion calling for morning, afternoon, and night sittings "unless otherwise ordered," on Tuesday, and for all following days of the session.

The premier said the motion may not be put into effect, but he is reported still aiming at prorogation Friday, March 11.

ONLY WOMAN in the CPR's B.C. Coast Service to win a Lifeboatman's Certificate is Mrs. K. M. Massey, a native of Victoria, who is news agent aboard CPSS Princess Elizabeth. Mrs. Massey recently passed the gruelling examination conducted by the chief examiner of masters and mates. In addition to written exam, test includes actual lifeboat drill. (Times Photo.)

Socreds 'Nest Of Crackpots', Laing Charges

Premier's Power Policies Rapped

Social Crediters were described as "a nest of crackpots—an unhappy gathering of people," by Arthur Laing, provincial Liberal leader, in a Cobble Hill address Thursday night.

Mr. Laing, speaking from the same platform as George Gregory (Lib-Victoria), made the statement as he criticized the provincial government on all points of its program.

British Columbia, he said, should be able to write her own ticket in power dealings with the United States.

"If we are just careful in the next three or four years, the United States will have to come to us for power and they will be ready to sign almost any ticket we are ready to give them. And we need to be careful—our economy is founded on timber and the power of falling water."

50 PER CENT

Mr. Gregory accused the government of selling the power potential from the Arrow Lakes development for 20 per cent of the local kilowatt development, whereas it should hold out for 50 per cent of all development "from the source of water right through to the sea."

Mr. Laing termed Premier Bennett "still a staunch Tory" who used the scullery maid's entrance into government "because he couldn't get in the front door."

He proposed that no more forest licenses be granted until the current inquiry into the system has been completed.

Amalgamation Survey Firm To Be Chosen

A meeting will be called by senior and junior chambers of commerce next week to discuss engaging a competent person or firm to make an amalgamation survey of Greater Victoria.

The committee comprises three members from each chamber.

Representing the senior body will be Percy Scurrah, whose appointment was confirmed today; M. Aubrey Kent and Forrest L. Shaw.

Named Thursday night to represent the junior chamber on the committee are Eric Charman, Donald Darling and Donald Anderson.

The committee has $5,000 to pay for the cost of the survey. Senior and junior chambers each have pledged $2,500.

Typewriter, Jacket Stolen in Burglary

Thieves made off with a portable typewriter and leather jacket in an overnight break-in of an office at Vic Van & Storage Ltd., 510 Fort Street.

City police said the culprits jimmied a door to gain entrance to a hall and then kicked a hole in a plasterboard wall to enter the office.

Estimated value of the stolen goods is $95.

GO SLOW ON VULGAR GLOW IRKED DOCTOR TELLS OAK BAY

An eleventh-hour protest by an Oak Bay resident failed to stop final passage of a by-law amendment by Oak Bay Council Thursday night permitting an increase in the size of neon signs in the municipality.

Dr. D. M. N. Longridge in a letter to the council said the amendment ". . . is entirely unnecessary and subjugating the best interests of Oak Bay residents to commercial enterprise."

"I am becoming increasingly aware of these hideous and vulgar signs in this city and I do not see why Oak Bay should not continue to keep them out by sensible legislation."

CCF Triggers Battle On Cabinet Expenses

The Legislature's committee on public accounts blew up today in a torrent of angry shouts when Opposition MLAs sought details of cabinet ministers' expense accounts.

Committee chairman Herbert Bruch (SC, Esquimalt) was accused of "muzzling" Opposition members by "throwing every technical hazard in the book" in their way.

Robert Strachan (CCF, Cowichan-Newcastle) attempted to oust the chairman by moving a non-confidence motion, but government members rallied to defeat it by a vote of 7 to 6.

The uproar started when CCF members asked that vouchers for expenditures made by cabinet ministers be produced. They also sought works department vouchers.

Chairman Bruch said requests for vouchers must be made "in writing." He said members could only ask for specific vouchers, not those for an entire department.

It was the committee's first meeting of the session, which Premier Bennett hopes will end next Friday.

"WHY WE'RE HERE"

Health Minister Eric Martin and Opposition Leader Arnold Webster clashed when Mr. Martin said it was "not the committee's job to go fishing" into the expenditures.

"That is what we are here for," replied Mr. Webster.

Shouts echoed up and down the corridors as Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan), and Mr. Bruch tangled on another question. Mr. Strachan charged "the chairman is interrupting every member who tries to speak. I refuse to be muzzled," he said.

"It is our duty to see there are vouchers for this money," he said. "We are supposed to see if they are in order."

At one point during the meeting Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said: "Just a minute boys, let's not be silly about this."

Next meeting is scheduled for Monday night, and chairman Bruch said he would adjourn it after one hour.

DROODLES

If you study the title to this droodle awhile you'll realize that it contains a tiny pun. Now many people think they are too egg-headed to appreciate puns but, personally, I consider them very ingenious. My favorite is the one about the noisy chess kibitzers who were ordered out of a hotel lobby where a chess match was being held. When asked why he did it, the hotel manager replied, "I was just pulling my chess nuts out of the foyer!" If you think that's crazy you never heard the one about the two Dutch boys named Hans and Wilhelm who were walking along a canal with their mother. Wilhelm suddenly pushed her into the water and said to his brother: "Look, Hans—no maw!" So?

Community Group To Call Parley On Track Issue

The newly-formed Victoria Branch, Community Planning Association of Canada, will soon call a public meeting to discuss the proposed plan of the Island Turf Club Ltd. to establish a race track on the city-owned 80-acre Beaver Lake site.

Members decided to call a meeting to discuss the entire project. All interested parties will be invited to present their cases. The date of the meeting will be announced later.

An offical said the association commended the city and Saanich councils for deciding to submit the track issue to the Regional Planning Board and the Saanich Town Planning Commission for report.

Injured Youngster Places Second in Poster Contest

A surprise awaits 13-year-old Sharron Clarke, 1724 Pembroke, when she is well enough to receive visitors in her room at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

She has been named second prize winner in a recent Red Cross poster contest.

Sharron, who was knocked from her bike Tuesday, still can't recognize her parents, but hospital officials say she is in fair condition and things will be back in focus for Sharron soon.

When she is well, Red Cross officials will offer her a choice of a camera or a smart sweater.

First prize winner is Mona McConell, 13, 1975 Haultain. She will get her award sooner. She has a choice of a wrist watch or a camera.

Both girls come from the same Grade 8 class at Oak Bay Junior High School.

The Red Cross poster campaign was sponsored by the campaign committee to publicize this month's $74,000 drive in Greater Victoria. The winning entries will be displayed.

Laing Learns About Livers (Chicken) From Lydia

Picture-window, mebbe?

By TOM GOULD

Mrs. Lydia Arsens (SC, Victoria) and Liberal leader Arthur Laing discussed the inside dope on chickens Thursday in the Legislature.

Mr. Laing got in a rueful last word.

The debate arose when Mr. Laing criticized Mrs. Arsens, for stating in a recent speech that many B.C. chickens have tuberculosis, and spots on their livers to prove it.

Mr. Laing accused the lady MLA of "making statements from time to time for which there is no substantiation."

He said poultry producers in B.C. already are having a difficult time competing with producers outside the province.

"Statements like this will make their position that much worse," said Mr. Laing. "B.C. can take a great deal of pride in the production of clean produce."

When the Liberal leader ended his speech, Mrs. Arsens took the floor, with fire in her eye.

"I resent these insinuations," she said. "I never make a statement without giving it thought. I may not always be right, but I always do my best to say what I think is right."

"A chicken might look well, like many people who are walking on the street today—and then they drop dead," said Mrs. Arsens.

"I requested regulations so the birds internal organs can be seen by the customer, so she knows the bird is well," said the Victoria MLA.

Lydia

She said she has bought chickens and found "solid spots on their liver — you can't tell me that fowl is well with spots like that."

When she was through, Mr. Laing said he was sorry he'd spoken because "more damage has been done."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Vegetable Row Offers Makings for Irish Stew

By PENNY SAVER

Shivers! All I can think of is hot, hot foods. Anything to warm me up. When I peek out the window and see the layer (though thin) of snow, I long for an old fashioned Irish stew.

The vegetables I gathered into my shopping basket today were mute evidence of my intentions. Fresh baby carrots are selling at two bunches for 23 cents; tender turnips, six cents a pound, and small flavorful cooking onions, 10 cents a pound. There you have a good basis for the vegetable part of the stew. If you like, add celery, which is selling at 35 cents a bunch—it's imported, and the stalks are absolutely huge. Either whipped potatoes or whole new ones will add wonderful taste alongside the stew, too. New 'taters cost 28 cents for three pounds.

I see today that green beans are selling at 29 cents a half pound, and my little extra favorite artichokes cost 32 cents each. Avacados are coming down more and more every day . . . now 11 cents each. If you love sweet potatoes as I do, you'll be right down after some that are selling at two pounds for 39 cents. Yams, sweeter and brighter colored than their cousin sweet potato, are now 22 cents a pound or two pounds for 43 cents. I can't think of a nicer way to dress up any meal than to treat yourselves to yams baked then mashed with orange juice or pulp, they're sheer delight. Try some.

I mentioned pineapples a little while ago, and now I am happy to report that they have dropped in price. A large solid one costs 99 cents! Yes, really. There's a real feeling of accomplishment comes when you have taken apart a pineapple . . . not just out of a tin, either. Something about "back to nature" I guess. Bananas that are good and solid and of a tempting size are yours . . . 43 cents for two pounds.

In cream or chocolate pies, in cakes, fruit salads, or for just plain eating, a banana always hits the spot in our house. They're so healthful, too. For in-between snacks, I've found that they don't ruin my appetite for dinner.

I saw a package of batter mix today that looks as if it is the answer to my prayer . . . and your's too. For fried and deep fried foods, you simply add water to the prepared flour, and there you have a batter that is just like grandma's. For 35 cents a package, it's simply wonderful.

Now's the time to try those French fried onion rings I mentioned a while back. There's a scrumptious sounding recipe on the side of the box . . . and served with fish sticks or an omelet, these onion ring would make a super supplement for your meals.

Remember, 2-3131 . . . that's my number. Just give me a call and I'll tell you the whereabouts of the articles mentioned above.

Wife Lets Jealousy Get Better of Her

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Jealousy can lead to all kinds of marital complications. Avoiding it is the best way to keep a marriage happy.

Hurlock

(Q)—"I am 21 years old and have been married to my 23-year-old husband for 2½ years. He is very good-looking and well liked because of his sense of humor and all-round personality. His charm still attracts girls, many of whom are teenagers. Many incidents that have happened lately lead me to doubt that he tells these girls he's married.

"This worries me and has led to many bitter arguments. But he dismisses them all with, 'Don't take it so seriously. They're only young kids who chase after anything that wears pants. And anyway, I still love you! I try to see his point of view, thinking I'm too jealous, but it still doesn't do any good. I seem to be losing all my trust in him. Should I still try to control myself or should I take drastic action?"

(A)—I do not know exactly what action you could take to keep young girls from being infatuated with your husband. Certainly you cannot lock him up. Neither would it make sense for you to leave him, knowing that he loves you and you love him.

Try to get a better perspective on this problem. If you keep on in this way, your jealousy will get the upper hand. You will begin to doubt his word and be suspicious of his actions. Next will come more frequent and more bitter arguments, leading to quarrels and, eventually the divorce court.

Your husband unquestionably enjoys the attention of the teenage girls. Let him have his fun, so long as it is only fun. It certainly cannot hurt you so long as he is being "chased" by girls, not one girl.

You, in turn, should let him know that other men find you attractive, too. Make a special effort to be charming to the men you meet at parties. Let your husband see that he is not the only member of the family who possesses the ability to attract people.

WHY GROW OLD?

Family Members Find Little Time Together

Q. "I am discouraged with family life—not because I do not love it but because I do not seem to be able to do anything about it. We are very happily married, and have a son 17 and a daughter 15.

"We are really nice normal individuals and are very fond of one another, at least I had always thought so, but for some reason there just seems to be no time when we are all together at home, when at least one-half of us is not sleepy or dead tired. We have no time for companionship as a family."

A. You are not alone with this problem. It just somehow seems to have happened with the speedup of modern living—some of it good and some of it destructive. Of one thing I feel certain. Do not make an issue of it because if you do, anything else you can do in a constructive way, will seem like work rather than fun when the rest of the family enters into it.

There are so many more really fine opportunities for companionship and fun for your children outside of the home today than there were years ago; all kinds of sports and young people's clubs and social centres, and probably you and your husband enter much more into the activities of your community than your forebears did.

However I believe as you do, that when these outside interests, even when constructive, take so much time that the family seldom has an hour or so about the fireplace or the kitchen stove or the coffee table, it is a distinct loss. This is an even greater loss when the family is as close and congenial as yours seems to be.

I think you are doing all right since it sounds to me as though your family would all enjoy being at home. Don't let them know you planned it—make the occasion gala rather than obligatory.

There are many, really wonderful games of skill which can be played in any home and which appeal to age groups from 12 to any age. Why not bring one of these home, just for a starter? You saw it—you thought it looked like fun—and you bought it. Just a little starter like this can make all the difference in the world in a family group. This only primes the pump so that the rest of the family will know how much fun it is to be together!

WOMEN 'N PARLIAMENT

Pioneer Woman MP Honored By Government of Canada

By Ruth V. G. Campbell

OTTAWA—On March eighth, 1922, Agnes Campbell Macphail took her seat as the first woman ever elected to the House of Commons. On March the eighth of this year, 1955, in a fitting anniversary ceremony, members and senators—together with the interested public—will gather in the Speaker's corridor of the Commons for the unveiling of a bronze bust of the pioneer woman politician of the United Farmers of Ontario-Labor Party (and later of the CCF) who from 1921 to 1940 represented the Ontario riding of Grey-Bruce, now held by Finance Minister Walter Harris.

After Agnes Macphail's death on February 13, 1954, the four women members and five women senators now in parliament made common cause for the placing of a suitable memorial to the Scottish-Canadian schoolteacher who contributed so notably toward the earlier endeavors of Canadian women to establish their place in federal government. They won the wholehearted support of Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin and parliamentarians of all parties, as well as women's organizations throughout the country. Through their joint efforts Miss Macphail has gained her niche in the company of distinguished statesmen whose memory is perpetuated on the sandstone walls of Parliament Hill's portrait gallery of Canadian history.

FIRST IN COMMONS

The battle for the federal franchise for women, first introduced into parliament by Sir John A. Macdonald, in 1883, was only successfully terminated when the Dominion By-Elections Act of 1919 decreed that any British subject, "male or female," of the full age of 21 years, could be a candidate for election in the House of Commons. Of the four greatly-daring women who campaigned for seats in the following election of 1921, Agnes Macphail was the sole survivor at the polls.

As a daughter of the farm, the member for Grey-Bruce was primarily concerned with the improvement of living standards in rural communities, more efficient marketing of agricultural products, and the extension of education.

Penitentiary reform was another objective for which Agnes Macphail was a pioneer crusader.

MANY INTERESTS

Agnes Macphail's tongue was sometimes caustic, she made bitter enemies as well as staunch friends, but her convictions were deep-rooted and her sympathies always for the under-dog. She was ever in the forefront in the House of Commons in urging pensions for the blind and the aged. The unemployment problems of the 1930's caused her deep concern, and party lines were forgotten in her ever-ready support of measures seeking the betterment of working conditions alike on the farm and in the factory. A strong advocate of world peace—and an equally implacable opponent of cadet training—she was chosen by the Canadian government as one of the parliamentary delegation to the League of Nations, and was the first Canadian woman to serve on some of its more important committees.

Although defeat in the general election of 1940 came as a crushing blow to Miss Macphail, her head was "bloody but unbowed." Under the CCF banner she staged a political comeback to serve years in the provincial legislature of Ontario.

By a singularly fortunate coincidence, as Speaker Beaudoin told the House when announcing that Miss Agnes Macphail was to be signally honored by the Canadian government, a fine bust of the first woman MP, the work of the well-known sculptor, Felix Weins de Weldon, was offered by her sisters, Mrs. Meredith Reany of Palmerston and Mrs. Hugh Bailey of Toronto, who will unveil the memorial at the ceremony on the eighth of March.

Reading Habits Hinge Largely On Background

TORONTO (BUP)—An unsatisfactory intellectual background in the home was blamed this week for poor reading habits among Ontario school children.

The parents were cited in a report released by a committee of public school teachers, librarians and publishers who sent out 20,000 questionaires to teachers during the past three years. The survey also suggested that many teachers were not "wrestling with the problem or even aware of it" because only 938 replies were received.

It was claimed the average child spends less than three hours a week on recreational reading.

"Where good books are made available in school and intelligently presented," the report said, "children show pleasure and progress even against the unsympathetic or apathetic background of the home."

The survey showed, however, that grants available to schools in rural areas for library books were not all spent and many parents who could afford to buy books did not do so.

"One can only conclude that many school authorities, and more parents, do not accept the axiom that the reading of good books is an educational end in itself," the report said.

UNESCO Surveys Education

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Girls make up half the high school enrollments in Europe and North America but only 28 per cent in Africa and 27 per cent in Asia.

The UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) cites these figures in reporting "equal opportunities" in this respect in Europe and North America and "marked" inequality in the other two. It says the percentage is 40 in South America and Oceania.

UNESCO, with headquarters in Paris, surveys the girls' secondary education situation in a 61-page report prepared for the 18-nation UN commission on the status of women, to meet here March 14-April 1.

PROGRESS SLOWER NOW

It speaks of considerable progress toward equality since 1930 but notes progress since the Second World War has been slower than before. The survey says:

In 1930, girls had already attained equality in 10 of 38 listed countries—Alaska, Canada, the United States, Denmark, England-Wales, Northern Ireland, Scotland, Finland, Sweden and New Zealand.

In 1940, Australia, Chile and the Dominican Republic reached the same stage. Since then, France, Ireland and Japan have done so.

The proportion of girls in secondary schools increased most in Haiti—from 0.5 per cent in 1953 to 15 per cent in 1954.

MEN PREDOMINATE

"Secondary school teaching," says the survey, "is still a career in which men predominate." It points out that in 33 out of 39 listed countries, women teachers make up less than half the total secondary teaching staff.

UNESCO says the main factor that keeps girls from getting secondary education is unequal educational facilities—"especially in countries where one-sex schools are the rule, as is the case in the majority of countries of Asia and in several of Latin America."

Among other contributing factors, it says, are expense, unequal opportunities for women to work and early marriage. It concludes:

"Only by attaining equal access to secondary education . . . adapted to the changing pattern of women's role in society, can women . . . take their full share of responsibility both in the family and in the cultural, economic and political life of their countries."

Kitchen Reminder

Sanitary work practices are just as important in the kitchen of the home as in public eating places.

Typical of the thousands of Canadian youngsters who are anxious to help their young friends in Korea is the little girl who recently came into the 48 Sparks Street headquarters of the Unitarian Service Committee in Ottawa. Stretching out a grubby palm, she spilled out a handful of pennies and nickels "for Korean children." When she was asked her name, the pint-sized philanthropist shook her head, which barely reached the level of the desk, and in a burst of modesty, made for the door. Her donation will always remain anonymous.

7 YEARS OF SERVICE

Open House Sunday By Red Cross Lodge

Volunteer workers at Victoria Red Cross Lodge will hold an open house Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. The event will mark about 22,000 hours of service to patients at Veterans' Hospital.

For seven years, more than 75 women have donated their time to the lodge every week as hostesses and cashiers. Because they work without pay the patients are able to stretch their pocket money.

There is a line-up of hospital patients waiting at the door every morning at 10 a.m., opening time. Yet the tearoom never makes a dime profit. Coffee and snacks are sold at cost and most wholesalers give the lodge a small discount.

According to resident supervisor, Mrs. M. W. Thomas, the servers often are called upon to provide 170 cups of coffee every morning. Library and games room facilities are busy all the time.

One of the most vital services of the lodge isn't directed to the patients but to their relatives. The lodge provides a pleasant room and breakfast for $1.50 and almost 400 visitors used the service last year. Most of them came from out-of-town points to be near an ailing loved one.

The annual open house is set to come at a time when emphasis is on Red Cross service due to the needs of the fund campaign. This year Victorians are asked to give $74,000 to ensure that services such as the lodge are maintained.

Questions on Red Cross activity around the world and items of interest about the lodge will be provided Sunday by members of the lodge committee executive. President is Mrs. W. C. Hudson. Also on hand will be Mrs. K. Mickelbourgh, in charge of volunteers, and Miss J. Angus, who arranges for volunteer cashiers.

Any one will be welcome between 3 and 5 p.m. Tea will be served. Anyone wishing it may sample a recent gift from Ceylon, fine Ceylonese tea, which was sent to the Canadian Red Cross in gratitude for work of the organization in that country.

Farmers Ask Federal Aid To Halt Skidding Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian farmers, fearing the impact of world food surpluses on prices and sales, Wednesday appealed for a wide range of federal price props to head off "serious trouble" in the $8,000,000,000 farm economy.

The 450,000-member Canadian Federation of Agriculture, in a meeting with cabinet, urged also that the government ban imports of cheese, move surplus butter out of the country and help provide free milk for school children to overcome a "depressed condition" in the dairy industry.

H. H. Hannam, CFA president who headed the 27-man federation delegations, said Prime Minister St. Laurent and 15 cabinet ministers turned out for the meeting. He said the reception was "excellent." The CFA was promised consideration but there was no indication how far the government was prepared to go to meet the farmers' demands.

The CFA brief said farmers suffer from a cost-price squeeze that has reduced living standards. Farm prices were falling while farm costs remained high. Farmers were being penalized for producing an abundance of food which was driving prices down.

Vodka Vs Whisky

KREFELD, Germany (AP) —Referees of the world ice hockey championships, tired of officiating and watching others play, have decided to play a friendly match against each other here today.

East European referees will play referees from the western side of the Iron Curtain.

To take any political effect out of the game the referees agreed to play under the slogan "vodka versus whisky."

Napoleon crowned himself emperor of France, saying: "No one is great enough to crown Napoleon."

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Liberal liquidation came into most grains. Barley particularly was affected due to outside interests, U.S. markets and an overseas decline.

July and October oats and barley registered new seasonal lows.

Export demand appeared for barley on the decline with parcel lot sales to the U.K. Small quantities of rye were reported sold to Holland and Belgium.

Oats attracted domestic shipping purchases. Flax was light.

The wheat prices remained unchanged except IWA and domestic No. 1 durums which were up ⅛ cent.

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains sold off with corn going to a new seasonal low. Dealings were active.

Brokers attributed the weakness in corn to a slack demand for the cash grain and the drop of live hog prices this week. Hogs are the biggest consumers of corn and falling prices for hogs makes it less profitable to feed the grain to them.

Wheat closed ⅜ to 2 cents lower, March 2.16⅞-2.17⅛; corn ¼-1½ lower, March 1.41⅛-⅜; oats ½-¾ lower, March 72-72⅛; rye unchanged to ⅝ lower, March 1.04¼; and soybeans ⅜ lower to ¼ higher, March 2.66½-¼.

Canadian Vickers climbed $3.25 to $47.50 and gains of $1 or more went to Canadian Dredge, Minnesota and Ontario, Dominion Stores, Canada Malting, International Pete, Ford A and General Motors.

The rest of the market was mostly mixed, with uraniums and junior golds strong.

Brazilian Traction climbed 37½ cents to a 1955 high of $9.50 on 15,000-share turnover to 2 p.m.

Consolidated Smelters dropped $1.12½ to $30.87½ in the mixed base metals. Western oils and golds changes were 25 cents or less.

NEW YORK

The market edged ahead in relatively quiet trading.

Market Sound Senators Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward T. McCormick, president of the American stock exchange, says that in spite of record-high and still rising stock prices "we have not reached a danger point."

McCormick testified today before the U.S. Senate banking committee investigating the stock market.

Like Thursday's lead-off witness, G. Keith Funston, president of the New York stock exchange, McCormick said current high prices are based on such sound factors as strong business activity and confidence of investors.

He said prices of most stocks were in line with their earnings and book values.

McCormick said he sees no indication of "excessive or unsound use of credit" in the market today.

Chairman J. William Fulbright quizzed Thursday's witness closely about a campaign by the New York exchange to bring many more investors into the market.

The senator said this recruitment campaign by itself was driving prices up by increasing the number of buyers for a limited amount of stock.

Rails to Set Differentials For Freight on Great Lakes

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners today amended its freight rate equalization order of 1952 to let railways set their own differential rates on freight moving part of the way aboard Great Lakes steamers.

The board included the amendment in a lengthy explanation of its rate judgment of a year ago, which imposed the board's own equalized class rate schedule on the railway freight tariff structure.

The action left the top class water-rail differential tied to the new general class rate schedule, but it wiped out the proportionate scale ordered for lower classes of commodity freight. It left the railways free to impose their own schedules of differentials below the top class upon three days' notice.

The amendment opened the way for new hearings and a possible later ruling by the board to write a revised schedule of differentials into the equalization judgment.

It was understood the railways already were preparing new proposals for differentials.

The differentials are special charges allowed in the case of commodities that can be moved part of the way via the Great Lakes during the shipping season.

EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES FOR OVER HALF A CENTURY

MORE THAN A 'PRUDENT ADMINISTRATOR'

'EN BON PERE DE FAMILLE' (as a good father of the family) is a phrase often used in the Civil Law of the Province of Quebec. It means a 'Prudent Administrator' and, as applied to Executors and Trustees, requires them to act with care and skill.

In addition it suggests that an Executor and Trustee must feel a deep sense of responsibility for the personal welfare and comfort of dependants.

It is the aim of the Officers of The Royal Trust Company to live up to this high ideal with sympathy and understanding, and to ensure efficient and economical administration of every Estate entrusted to our care.

Trust and Estate Officers are always available when needed for consultation.

Canada's Trade Picture Shows $146 Million Loss

Canada's trading business declined last year. The nation didn't buy as much and it didn't sell as much.

Final figures just compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that purchases from other countries exceeded sales by $146,300,000.

This was not such a big deficit as was recorded in 1953 but was a long way off 1952 figures, when Canada showed a sizeable trade profit.

The deficit in trading in 1953 was $210,200,000. In 1952, when the scales tipped the other way, Canada showed a profit of $325,500,000.

Imports into Canada were 6.6 per cent lower in 1954 than they were the year before and domestic exports 5.7 per cent lower. Imports totaled $4,093,200,000 and exports, including processed foreign goods re-exported from Canada, came to $3,946,900,000.

Canada bought less from the United States, Britain and Latin America. She bought more from other Commonwealth countries, Europe and Asia.

She bought less of everything, so far as the commodity breakdown is concerned, except for petroleum, electrical apparatus, coffee and chickory.

Canada still does most of its outside shopping in the United States. U.S. purchases, in fact, represent 72.3 per cent of this country's foreign imports.

Canada bought more from Australia but less from New Zealand. She bought more from the West Indies and African countries.

Purchases from Europe rose with West Germany leading in the field of increased business.

We bought more from Italy, Spain, the Netherlands and less from Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Sweden and Switzerland.

Retail Sales Lower in '54

OTTAWA (BUP) — Retail trade in Canada set a new monthly record in December, but in spite of it the year's total was 1.4 per cent below 1953, the Bureau of Statistics said today.

Retailers did a total estimated business of $11,959,153,000 compared with $12,125,802,000 in the previous year. December sales amounted to $1,207,883,000, a three per cent increase over the previous December and the highest for any one month.

The sales decline was confined to independent stores on the 12-month basis. They reported a decrease in sales to $9,825,167,000 from the 1953 total of $10,007,574,000. Retail chain stores increased the value of their sales from $2,048,228,000 in 1953 to $2,133,986,000 in 1954.

Retail sales increased slightly—less than one per cent in each case—in the Atlantic provinces, Quebec and British Columbia. They dipped varying amounts in the other districts.

6 IN MEMORIAM

BOWCOTT — In loving memory of Georgina Bowcott, our dear mother, who passed away on March 4, 1954.

We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence,
No eye may see us weep;
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.

—Lovingly remembered by her sons and daughters.

BOWCOTT—In loving memory of our beloved Auntie Doe, who passed away March 4, 1954.

In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away,
Our hearts were almost broken,
You fought so hard to stay.
But when we saw you sleeping,
So peacefully, free from pain,
We could not wish you back
To suffer that again.

—Ever remembered by Chris, Johnnie, Jean Barness, their families and Mr. and Mrs. J. Kirk, Port Angeles.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

South was aggressive in the bidding of today's hand, but it worked out very well for him. He played the hand well, and probably he was helped by the defense. This, however, is no more than the average good player expects. He counts on the fact that the defense usually has more problems than the declarer.

Opening lead—♣ 3

West opened the three of clubs, hoping to get a trick or two in the unbid suit. Declarer went up at once with the ace of clubs, cashed the top diamonds in order to get rid of his last club, and finessed the jack of hearts to West's queen.

West had debated the advisability of leading a trump, and he wavered once more. Finally, he decided against it. Instead he led the king of clubs, forcing South to ruff.

South cashed the ace of hearts and led a heart toward dummy. West wavered again and discarded a club. By this time, of course, South knew who had the king of spades. This turned out to be important.

South ruffed another club to get back to his hand and led another low heart towards dummy. West again discarded a club, his last, and dummy ruffed.

At this stage, declarer had taken eight tricks. He led a low diamond from the dummy and ruffed with the ace. Then he led his last heart toward dummy. West couldn't prevent dummy's queen of trumps from furnishing declarer's 10th trick.

South would have been beaten if he had ruffed the diamond with a low trump instead of with the ace. West would have over-ruffed and would have returned the king of spades. Then West would be sure of the last two tricks, defeating the contract.

SHAN-TONG
This unusual pattern of fir plywood is the latest addition to the famous P.V. brand of decorative plywoods. Shan-Tong has a rich appearance of expensive, woven Oriental fabric—a rich, intriguing pattern that blends with any decorative style — contemporary, traditional, or exotic. The natural two-toned color (dark brown and cream) of Shan-Tong's "woven" texture requires no further treatment other than a transparent, such as white shellac thinned with methyl-hydrate (wood alcohol); a wipe-off paint effect or solid color can also be used. Shan-Tong comes in sizes 4'x8'-¼" trick, each $6.72.

When Will Your Set Become an 'Oddity?'

Ever wonder when your brand new family television set that you are so proud of will become obsolete and why?

According to Ricardo Muniz in a speech before the Electric Club of Montreal recently, it will be colored TV that will do the trick.

"It can be truthfully said that color television provides a sufficiently greater degree of enjoyment and entertainment that public demand will result in the production of color programs, tranmitters and receivers in ever-increasing quantities until 10 or 15 years from now the black and white receivers will be the oddity," Mr. Muniz, manager, television-radio division, Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited, asserted.

Other Muniz observations:

A sale of 3,000 color receivers

Frank Sinatra in Late Movie on Channel 2

in Canada is forecast for 1955. The CBC has no immediate plans for carrying color programs. Victoria and Vancouver are picking up Seattle color well, Windsor is getting Detroit's, London is receiving Cleveland's clearly and Hamilton is picking up color from Buffalo. Occasionally Toronto gets Buffalo also. Montreal is expecting to get theirs from Burlington, Vermont.

On black and white sets: Of the 1,300,000 receivers now in use in Canada more than 600,000 were sold in 1954. It is expected that some 600,000 will be sold in 1955. This will bring the number of sets in the nation near the 2,000,000 mark . . . "a very much more rapid growth than occurred in the United States."

Kiddies' Korner

4.30: Roy Rogers, Channel 2; Stan Boreson, 5.

5.00: Maggie Muggins, Channel 2; Pinky Lee variety, 4; Sheriff Tex, 5; Cartoon Bill, 11; Cowboy G-Men, 13.

5.15: Uncle Chicimus, Channel 2; Capt. Video, 11 (serial).

5.30: Howdy Doody, Channels 2 and 4; Adventure Time, 12; Stan Kramien, 13.

6.00: Abbott and Costello, Channel 5; Hopalong, 13.

7.30: Rin Tin Tin, Channel 5.

Sport

7.00: In this corner we have welterweight Billy Graham of New York, loser in his last two starts. And in this corner we have Chico Vejar, late of the U.S. army and undefeated since his release. It's a 10-round go over Channel 4 from Madison Square Garden, N.Y.

10.00: Outdoors Denton, Channel 2; Fishing for Fun, 13.

10.40: Bill O'Mara's Sport Screen, Channel 5.

Headliners

While you warm up the set prior to the fight and the kids pray for an early decision so they can coax you to turn to their beloved dog Rinty on 5, why not relax to the dulcet tones of Perry Como on Channel 11 at 6.45? Or if you're a bachelor or a spinster of the parish and don't dig fisticuffs there's Bishop Sheen on Channel 11, the Beulah Show on 13, a discussion on opportunities in professional driving on 5 and Bill Bellman's Almanac on 2. These are all at 7.

7.30: Comics, Amos 'n Andy make their own brand of laughter on Channel 2. Ed Murrow visits the ranch of Roy Rogers and family on 11, while a Biff Baker drama occupies 12 and Family Theatre 13.

8.00: Comedy mostly prevails at this hour. The delightful team of Ozzie and Harriet features Channel 5, wherein Ozzie is hard pressed to make up his mind whether he should play in the father and son table tennis tournament with Ricky or David. Red Buttons appears on Channels 4 and 2, while Peggy Wood as Mama runs into excitement over a banking problem. Boris Karloff features "Death in the Dressing Room," wherein a dancer is found murdered. International police sirens can be heard on 13.

8.30: This is also a comparatively light-hearted time for all. Ray Bolger dances and mimes on Channel 5, the comedy "Topper's Arabian Night" holds Channel 11 with Leo G. Carroll, Anne Jeffreys and Robert Sterling in the starring roles. Violinist Florian ZaBach gives "I Surrender Dear" on Channel 12. The drama Waterfront shows on 4, the Ploufee Family on 2.

9.00: Joy dims a whit here as crime begins to "pay." On Channel 4 a reporter probes the murder of a gang leader in The Big Story. Scott Forbes stars in Channel 11's Playhouse of Stars, about a Sicilian sentenced to the galleys for an insulting bit of sculpting. Mr. District Attorney occupies Channel 5. The lighter vein is supplied by Channel 2's musical house party with Bing Whitteker. The variety of Robert Q. Lewis is on 12.

9.30: The comedy Dear Phoebe makes light on Channels 2 and 4. Usually equally as humorous, Our Miss Brooks revels on 11. Jack Webb's Badge 714 can be had on 5 and the Mr. and Mrs. North adventure on 12.

10.00: Eddie Fisher sings on Channel 4. But if you want chills and thrills you had better turn in either "The Whistler" on 5 or "The Lineup" on 11.

10.30: Channel 2's The Star And The Story promises well in "The Round Dozen." Starring Brian Aherne, it's about an author vacationing in a strange inn.

Theatre

TONIGHT'S MOVIES

6.00: Family Theatre features "A Wave, A Wac and A Marine" on Channel 12.

8.30: "Sneak Preview," Channel 13.

10.00: George Brent, Bruce Cabot and Priscilla Lane star in "The Silver Queen," wherein a girl finds herself with a problem father and fiance.

10.30: "So This Is New York" is a drama that premieres on

Violinist Florian ZaBach on 12 at 8.30

Channel 4 and stars Henry Morgan and Rudy Vallee. A man sets out to paint New York a fire engine red. On Channel 13 "Lured" features Lucille Ball and George Sanders in a film about a madman bent on murdering a number of women.

10.45: "Japanese War Bride" is Channel 5's late choice. "The Frightened Bride" is the drama on Channel 11.

11.00: "The Miracle Of The Bells" holds Channel 2. It stars Fred MacMurray, Frank Sinatra, Valli and Lee Cobb.

WHEN PROFITS ARE MEASURED IN PENNIES

Is Leukosis a Prowler on your Farm? If Leukosis stealthily undermines your egg profits—don't take half-way preventative measures. GO ALL OUT, start at the beginning by buying the most resistant chicks you can get.

H&N Nick Chick Leghorns you buy from our hatchery have this Leukosis resistant breeding behind them. That's one reason they live so well where others fade away and die. We don't claim they are 100% but we know they have good resistance when compared to other strains. H&N Nick Chick Random Sample Average Unequalled by any other Leghorn or Hy-bred.

5-Year Calif. avrg. profit $6.14, eggs 256
Test avrg. profit $4.84, eggs 220
Extra H&N profit per chick $1.30, eggs 36

H&N Leghorns, also held the highest three-year average profit at both California and New York. We are the only hatchery in Western Canada that can supply you with H&N NICK CHICKS. Why don't YOU try them and see how much more resistant they are under the conditions which exist on your farm.

WHY GAMBLE

When you buy broiler chicks buy the chicks that will make you the most PROFIT. Our Cornish Cross took the Random Sample Test in California crossed with first generation Nichols New Hamps or Arbor Acrea White Rocks. All our breeding stock is first generation Nichols or Arbor Acreas. We are the only hatchery in B.C. that imports all their breeding stock from these famous American breeders.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1955

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Some pretty appealing delights tempt you, but if you want to utilize today most advantageously, spend daytime increasing value of possessions. The p.m. you can enjoy inexpensive recreations that satisfy.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—You are all steamed up to give blast to someone beneath roof of your dwelling, but you'd better get your own affairs in better shape before you hurl any rocks, then your own glass house is protected, you become gentle.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Vacillating between tackling some job, getting off on jaunt with fun-loving comrade loses zest, efficiency for both. Make sure you do your duty earnestly; then you go to pleasures with free mind.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Determined friend tries to show you value of sensible course of conduct, so replace that urge to spend more than you can afford by following suggestions given. Steer clear of extravagance.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—You feel you'd like to contact official and give call-down for some minor infraction that just happened to annoy you; instead show your charm, and you raise spirits of everyone concerned. Get your credit right.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Stop fussing about little details. This is your day to study over-all aims, possibilities now yours for getting caught up with modern ideas, ways of doing things that appeal to you. Be more open-minded.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Desire to fight with another over some petty matter shown silly by taking time out to think out what your lofty ideals actually are; then you are in position to achieve results commensurate with your bigness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 30 to Nov. 21) — Have you been fair-minded with all others instead of being so wrapped up in your own little world that you have been unable to see good points of others? Stop, look, listen before making snap judgments. Be kind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Definite job to be done by you requires you finish thoroughly before accepting that invitation to go off on amusing jaunt with charmer. Postpone trip until you've finished all tasks, or you lessen prestige.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Stop being so glum about conditions with another—they will only be improved if you show your charm, interest in welfare of one who looks to you for support. Be outgiving. Control moodiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Seek ways to get away from tense conditions at home so it can work itself out without friction being constantly present. Enjoy generous chum who has plan that attracts you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Calmly attending all those errands, using extra care on highway, with speech to avoid irking sensitive companions relieves this day of probable argument which yor goodness, smile avoids.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SATURDAY . . .

Saturday's child is one of those dynamic youngsters who is apt to feel that arguments or differences of opinion can be settled by a pitched battle rather than by talking things out amicably. Therefore, let your progeny early have boxing gloves—boy or girl—and get surplus energy used in this manner. Then there will be chance to channel fine abilities in work requiring trouble-shooting abilities, especially if connected with the general public or some entertainment, recreation vocations.

SUNDAY, MARCH 6, 1955

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) — A.M. finds deep-seated depression unless you get off to spiritual satisfactions that relieve gloom. P.M. then brings chance to enjoy chum at charming site. Be happy.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) — Inflated member of family needs patience and understanding to avoid crack-up; generosity of spirit a must this a.m. P.M. finds you able to make surroundings much more attractive.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Use your mind to decide other than routine problems which have been bogging you down; listen to understand highly-evolved adviser. P.M., get off with kin, neighbor to appealing amusement. Have fun.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Delay in buying some delight owing to inadequacy of funds all right, for you merely need to exercise patience, then it's yours. P.M., clean, improve matters at home.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Tense condition at home relieved in proportion to gentle attitude you evidence to all at that important place. Keep smiling, no matter how tired, dull you feel. P.M. let receptive comrade know your deepest aims.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Snide comment pertaining to some long-seated condition can upset you if you forget others are under greater strain to keep poised than you; be good example of courtesy, calmness, consideration. P.M., think out better budget.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Your traditional ideas conflict with your current principles, but they can be reconciled when you realize modern use of proven principles is OK. One now uses car, airplane instead of horse, camel, elephant.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You have ideas today that you do not jell with what powerful backers expect of you. So make sure to take no chances that will jeopardize your credit, job, or popularity. P.M., quietly show official your best points.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Living at highest level you can visualize takes away from dull drabness that has been in effect in past. P.M., have interesting chat with awakened associate who can expand your ideals, aims.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You have some very accurate attunement or hunch which you would be wise to follow despite urgent pleas of friend to go off on some ephemeral jaunt that produces nothing of value.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Being aware of partner, mate, colleague's wishes requiring that you reappraise your civic duties; make sure you take no chances of shirking duty to which you are already committed. Be precise in carrying out promises with all.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Getting your environment more harmonious is better now than going off to some unknown action that actually holds seeds of discontent, accidents, trouble. Show others you understand their needs.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SUNDAY . . .

Sunday's child is one of those very interesting and stubborn youngsters who will seem to have to burn his or her fingers before avoiding the flame. Nevertheless, your tot is one of those very worthwhile youngsters who will always remember any lesson once it has been imprinted on the consciousness. Fine chart for work requiring intense training over a considerable period of time but which then brings satisfactory benefits—such as professional, big business vocations.

ACROSS:

1. SACK is best since the clue specifies a "large" hole. Any hole, large or small is annoying in a SOCK. A small hole in a SACK, however, might, for many purposes, be considered quite negligible.

6. "It starts, and you want to stop IT," the clue suggests. ROT—which progresses of its own accord—answers exactly. A ROW is merely a state of affairs; strictly speaking it is the PEOPLE who start ROWING, and perhaps should be stopped.

7. REGAL is better. LEGAL personages in general are NOT often in the news, though often ONE OR ANOTHER of them is. REGAL personages in general ARE often in the news.

12. GRAIN, yes; but the storm would hardly have much effect on the TRAIN itself, though the schedule or running conditions might indirectly be affected.

17. NOTE fits the clue. Certainly he would make a NOTE of it. NODE would not apply to the path of a comet.

19. KNITTED is better. "Quite often LOOSELY" implies that a scarf is also quite commonly TIGHTLY this. There are certainly quite a lot of tightly KNITTED scarves but it is very rare for people to KNOT them TIGHTLY.

21. SIRES is preferred since the clue says "may possibly." Sportsmen naturally take a liking for certain SIDES over others in various sports, baseball, hockey, etc., so that "may possibly" is an understatement. However, only those interested in horse racing or breeding will interest themselves in SIRES which fits the clue words—"may possibly."

23. SENOR SUGGESTS a man (a Spaniard). As a rule a TENOR IS a man, and "suggests" is incorrect because it is an understatement.

25. A SAP is WHAT he may feel, and SAD is rather HOW he may feel.

26. NOTE is best. A sharp NOSE may be regarded on some people as being very pleasing to look at. Tastes differ, you know! However, it is universally agreed that a musical NOTE should be of true pitch, not sharp or flat, so that one that is not can truly be said to be "not very nice."

28. Since a ROPE, as a rule is entirely utilitarian, and has to bear strain, it answers the idea of the clue excellently. A ROBE may be discarded when still in perfect condition, or worn until it is literally falling apart, according to the inclination of the owner.

DOWN:

1. "Painting," i.e., working in COLOR, strongly favors SHADE, especially as the clue further mentions a FLOWER—a typically colorful subject. SHAPE applies primarily in drawing, and SHADE of color in painting.

2. The wording of the clue favors a CONTAINER (CRATE) as an answer. A CRANE may HAVE such parts, but does not match up with the customary meaning of "Contain" as well as CRATE.

4. DESIGN is better. You're not likely to do a DESIGN without thinking about it quite a lot—the very word DESIGN implies thought. It does not follow that to RESIGN is an act of your own will—you may HAVE to RESIGN, without any question of it being the outcome of a lot of thought on your part.

5. BAR is more apt. In a CAR the comfort of the seats is a prime consideration—you expect them to be MORE than just "fairly" comfortable. Many BAR seats are just temporary perches designed to occupy the minimum of space, but you nevertheless expect them to be FAIRLY comfortable.

10. The clue is concerned with CASH, so PRICES is more apt than PRIZES which may be GOODS, trophies, etc.

14. DANCER, yes. DANCES are abstract, and their success simply means that the DANCER, or DANCERS, has made a success of performing them.

15. We are concerned with THOUGHT. Certain NOTIONS may well differ from your way of thinking. NATIONS may differ from your whole way of LIVING or conducting affairs.

16. BEG is more apt. To become a professional BEGGAR would definitely be lowering socially. Although some forms of gambling are considered degrading, the professional backer of horses, for example, is often considered "respectable."

20. DIVER is better. DINER in this case can only mean a dining car and the equipment for this surely MUST cost quite a lot; there is no "may cost" about it. A DIVER'S equipment may be anything from a loin cloth and a knife to a full deep-water rig-out—thus it may, or may not, cost "quite a lot."

22. SAME is preferred. Mountain climbers are constantly seeking new peaks to climb and new ways of climbing old ones. To always follow the SAME route would spoil the sport. Although mountaineers recognize risks, each one's safety is so much dependent on his fellows that safety measures must be observed as far as possible in so risky a sport. Therefore, they want men who will go the SAFE way insofar as possible.

Albertan, 81, Lost and Made Farm Fortunes

NOBLEFORD, Alta. (CP)—When Charles Sherwood Noble lost a farming empire estimated worth $2,500,000 in 1922, he started to build a new one as farmer, inventor and manufacturer.

Noble, now 81, invented a cultivator blade and began manufacturing in this district 20 miles northwest of Lethbridge. In 1950 he built a shop worth $200,000 and in the last three years production has touched almost $1,000,000 a year.

He came into Alberta in 1902 from North Dakota, walking behind a plow pulled by four oxen to break homestead land at Claresholm. He went into the implement business and then real estate, and by 1920 he was the landlord of 60 sections, running 61 binders and 600 horses and mules.

DROUGHT DISASTER

Drought struck in 1922 and the enterprise failed. Foreclosure came and the holdings went for $650,000.

In the parched 1930s high winds swept into great black clouds the topsoil from which the fibre had gone.

Noble saw a need for tillage equipment that would leave all the stubble and crop residue on the surface, sufficiently anchored so it would not blow away.

In 1935, while visiting California, he saw an implement used in the sugar beet fields. Noble tried it on his Alberta fields. Working in his farm blacksmith shop, he made two improved blades and neighbors began testing them,

EXPORT BUSINESS

The farm workshop grew into the present plant.

Ken Liddell tells about the venture in a copyright article in the Calgary Herald.

Two-thirds of the company's output is shipped to the United States. Noble blades have also gone to Egypt, South Africa and Central America.

Rum Runners Active Off Norway Coast

OSLO (UP) — Three new police cruisers have been stationed in the mouth of the Oslo Fjord to give alcohol smugglers a hard time.

The number of smugglers — profiteering highly on the skyrocketing prices on all kinds of wine and brandy in Norway—has increased heavily during recent months, police claim.

Only a small percentage of the smugglers have been caught, owing to the modern methods they are using and the old-fashioned methods employed by customs and police officials.

Now, this is being changed. The water police force is slowly but surely catching up with the law-breakers, even if the improvement does not come with the speed they could wish. Lack of funds is still a handicap.

Sources here, who do not want to be identified, claim that an increasing number of Dutch and West German freight vessels engage in the smuggling in Scandinavian waters.

From these vessels, watertight containers filled with alcohol are dropped in the Norwegian fiords it is claimed. They are fished out later by the Norwegian contacts of the foreigners.

The alcohol is believed to come mostly from Baltic ports behind the Iron Curtain.

The smuggling of alcohol into Norway has taken such proportions, recent statistics show, that court of justice actions against smugglers this year show the highest number since 1927, the last year of the prohibition period in Norway.

Machine May Oust Elephant Says Burmese

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—A Burmese named U Aung Baw visited these parts in an effort to determine whether bulldozers and donkey engines can replace elephant power in the teakwood forests along the Road to Mandalay.

U Aung Baw is studying Pacific Northwest forestry practices under sponsorship of the United Nations. He is a member of the Burma State Timber Board and hopes to find an effective method of changing his country's teak logging industry from elephant to mechanical power.

Not that he is knocking elephants. They make very good beasts of burden in the jungle. They can find their own food, can be trained almost to think for themselves, cost only about $2,000 apiece and don't require spare parts.

But two-thirds of Burma's elephant population was destroyed during World War Two, and there just aren't enough elephants to go around in that land where the dawn comes up like thunder.

"Burma now has about 1,800 elephants," he said. "About half of these are owned by the government."

A good elephant can pull up to five tons of lumber, Baw said. The elephants pull the teak along the ground.

They are trained when they are five or six years old and work until they are about 55. They are able to do an elephant-size job of work when they reach 18 years of age.

Approximately three-fourths of the crude rubber consumed in the United States goes into the manufacture of tires and tubes.

Habs Set Mark

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens have set a National Hockey League record for assists in one season, statistics showed today.

Including Thursday night's contest against Boston, the Canadiens have picked up 356 assists on 211 goals, 18 better than the old record of 338 set in the 1950-51 season. Montreal still has eight games remaining to play.

BARELY ENOUGH TO BUY GAS, RUN HOUSE

'Too Many Wives' Manville Down to Last $2 Million

NEW YORK, (UP)—Much-married Tommy Manville, who is being sued by his ninth wife for more alimony, told Manhatten Supreme Court Thursday that he's down to his last $2,054,585.

"The fact is," Manville told reporters, "I'm broke."

Manville pleaded virtual poverty in answer to a suit by Anita Roddy-Eden. Manville, who is asking $1,000 a week alimony instead of the $1,000 a month she now is getting from the asbestos heir.

He said, "I spend more to live than my money earns for me. I have no business of any kind."

Mrs. Manville contends her estranged husband is worth between $10,000,000 and $25,000,000.

Manville, who received $1,000,000 outright on his 60th birthday last April, said he lives only on the income from trust funds.

He said last year's inheritance boosted his net worth to only $2,054,585 and the income from this amount is barely enough to run his $136,000 house and buy gas for his three automobiles.

Controlled Democracy Pakistan's New Goal

Modified U.S. Constitutional System May Cure Recurring Cabinet Crises

By TONY MASCARENHAS

KARACHI (Reuters)—Pakistan has turned her back on the British parliamentary system of government.

Faced with a situation in which the federal and provincial governments were going from one cabinet crisis to another, the country's leaders now are experimenting with a modified form of the United States system, officially described here as "controlled democracy."

After the death of Liaquat Ali Khan, the country's first prime minister, the Moslem League party, once a strong, united force, broke up into bitterly opposed factions.

DISASTROUS EFFECT

The resultant indecision had a disastrous effect upon economic and foreign policies. Famine threatened a country which once exported wheat and rice. Khwaja Nazimuddin, the second prime minister, was dismissed by the governor-general, Ghulam Mohammad, April 17, 1953, in an effort to regain stability. Eighteen months later, this action was almost repeated in the case of Mohammed Ali, the present prime minister.

The political situation in Pakistan on Oct. 24, 1954, was chaotic. Rival provincial groups in the Constituent Assembly had quarrelled bitterly over the national language, the quantum of representation and other articles in the proposed new constitution.

The climax came when the majority Bengal group in the Constituent Assembly divested the governer-general of his executive powers and repealed the Public and Representatives Disqualification Act under which some of their members faced prosecution.

Then Ghulam Mohammad the governor-general, promulgated a state of emergency, dissolved the assembly and ordered Ali to reconstitute his cabinet to include strong men.

The new leaders consider that the British parliamentary system is not suited to the great majority of the illiterate elecorate because it requires that the cabinet be responsible to the legislature.

PERIOD OF FREEDOM

The new leaders favor the American system for two reasons: It gives the elected government a stipulated period in which to carry out its mandate without constant threat of defeat; and it follows closely the rule of the caliphs in the early days of Islam, and hence has an odditional religous appeal.

The new constitutional plan will be put before a constitutional convention in June or July after the unification of the province and princely states of West Pakistan has been accomplished. Government leaders hope to declare a republic by August 14, eighth anniversary of the country's independence.

VICTORIANS RANK HIGH

Lists of scholarship and prize-winners, Rhodes scholars, student and faculty officials show a generous sprinkling of people from across the Gulf of Georgia. As an example, five of the 10 student members of open house committee are from Victoria, one of them a Rhodes scholar for 1955.

He is Walter Young, vice-chairman of the committee set up to organize the university's triennial showcase to be attended Saturday by upwards of 50,000 citizens of British Columbia.

MANY VICTORIANS

Also from Victoria are Frances Appleton, committee secretary; Geoff Conway, open house treasurer, scholarship winner in commerce and next year's student union treasurer; Allan Thackray, traffic chairman and new president of the Undergraduate Clubs committee; and Brian Smith, clubs co-ordinator for open house.

Prominent Victoria figures who maintain an intimate connection with the university through the board of governors are D'Arcy J. Baldwin and Judge Joseph B. Clearihue, and members of the senate include Major H. C. Holmes; Dr. Harry Hickman, Victoria College principal; Harry Gilliland, Victoria Normal School principal; Bernard Gillie, S. J. Willis Junior High School principal; and Stuart Keate, Times publisher and vice-president of Victoria Press.

Attending university is Bob Affleck, a fourth year chemical engineering student who has just won the Athlone scholarship for study in England, and Bob Hutchison, law student and new president of Men's Athletic Directorate who ran for Canada in Helsinki Olympics.

Another Victorian, Jim McWilliams, last year won a Rhodes scholarship at UBC and is now studying in England.

Associate registrar Jack Parnall is a Duncan man and graduate of both Victoria College and UBC. Dean of men Walter Gage, a Great Trekker of 1922 at UBC, was mathematics teacher and registrar at Victoria College from 1927-33.

He recalls Victoria College and UBC graduate Charles Armstrong, now president of Pacific University at Forest Grove, Oregon.

CITY RHODES SCHOLAR

Victoria brothers who graduated from the university are Rhodes scholar James Gibson, dean of arts and science at Carleton College, Ottawa, and UBC's William C. Gibson, associate professor and chairman of the department of neurological research, who studied medicine at McGill, in Spain and in England.

From Cumberland came Trudeain Mounce, one of the first winners of the Chris Spencer Foundation special scholarship, who plans to go into teacher training.

After his two years at Victoria College Lyle Purmal Robertson came to UBC and is now a top student in third year arts, having been four-times winner of Vancouver Sun scholarships for repeated first class averages and 1953-54 winner of the California Standard scholarship in physics and mathematics.

An assistant professor in the school of commerce, Donald Fields is a former Vic. College man, as is Nelson Allen, principal of Ladner High School. And still another Vic. College grad is Dr. William Robbins, UBC professor of English, now on leave of absence working on a scholarship grant.

HIGH ABILITY

These are, of course, but a few of the many Islanders who have not only taken part or are now taking part in the university, but have also shown they are high-ability individuals.

Many came from Victoria College, where two years of arts or commerce, pre-engineering, pre-architecture, one year of agriculture and several other preliminary courses may be obtained.

UBC registrar Charles Wood says, "Victoria College gives students a very stable foundation with a range sligthly less extensive than here. But a student gets more personal attention there because of smaller classes. Here, a student is often lost in the mill."

EXPANSION HERE

Victoria College is due for expansion shortly, however, the intention being to offer full degrees in arts, and to reorganize the normal school into a teacher training department of UBC school of education.

Dean Gage agrees there are advantages to attending Vic. College before coming to UBC, but also feels that for many students from smaller communities, it is better plan to come directly to UBC to get away from the "small town" way of doing things.

A university education is possible for more people today than ever before, and at UBC its availability is stressed by Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, president since 1944, when he succeeded retiring incumbent Dr. L. S. Klinck.

The greater cost today is becoming increasingly off-set by special funds, loans, grants, bursaries and scholarships for students who would otherwise be unable to attend university, Dean Gage points out.

Money is available for any student with ability and promise, and it is still possible to fully cover one year's expenses in less than $1,000. Senior courses cost more in the way of fees and equipment, medicine being one such. A year's medicine amounts to a minimum of about $1,500.

But Dean Gage points out that a student who struggles along on less than $1,000 a year "may suffer by not being able to take part in extra-curricular activities, a recognized factor in a modern education."

Opportunities for part-time employment on the campus are becoming greater, he says, "and today there is a greater variety of students who feel they can attend university."

ACCOMMODATION

Students from the Island, like others with homes away from Vancouver, may live in low-cost temporary accommodation provided by the university in a limited amount. Fort and Acadia camps are two such areas close by the campus which make room for 740 single men students and about 250 single women and married students. In addition, there is accommodation of a permanent type for 150 single women in three modern dormitories.

For single students, all accommodation is in either single or double rooms, and meals can be obtained within the camp areas. Washing facilities for personal items of clothing are also available.

All told, there is accommodation for about 1,200 students, but to equalize the cost of education throughout the province there should be room for about 800 to 1,000 more, says Dean Geoffrey C. Andrew, assistant to the president.

He says there are about 2,900 students from out-of-town points, but of these there are always some who prefer living in private homes (which the housing administration lists for students applying); a co-operative house, fraternity house, or apartment.

"By the time we have 10,000 students (estimated for 1965) we ought to have accommodation for 4,000. But we can hardly keep up with increasing enrollment, let alone catch the back-log," says Dean Andrew.

"It shows how far behind you can get in perpetuity when you don't get started early."

Permanent housing is an item of high priority on the list of proposed new construction on campus.

Visitors to UBC campus during Open House Saturday may inspect living accommodation in either of the camps and in parts of the permanent women's residences, located at the north end of the Main Mall below the flagpole.

Martin Says B.C. Can't Increase Pension Bonus

British Columbia can't afford increases in old age pension bonuses, Health Minister Eric Martin told the Legislature on Thursday.

He said a $5-a-month increase in the present $15 pension bonus "would cost us $3,600,000, and an increase of only five cents would cost $36,000."

Mr. Martin also dashed opposition hopes for extension of medical coverage to all pensioners. He urged MLA's to inform him of any case where a pensioner, not receiving the bonus, and not eligible for medical coverage, is suffering hardship.

He said he would judge "each case on its merits."

CCF MLA's raised the bonus increase question. They said the CCF government in Saskatchewan now has the highest bonuses in Canada, up to $20 a month.

U.S. 'Well-Nigh Unbeatable' In Nuclear War Says Navy Chief

Power of Retaliation, Impossible to Stop, Enemy's One Hope Thomas Tells Council

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas said Tuesday night it would be "impossible" for an enemy to destroy America's power of atomic retaliation because of growing navy offensive strength added to air might.

In a speech prepared for the Los Angeles World Affairs Council, Thomas said he does not think the danger of atomic war "is great in the immediate or near future." If it comes, he said, this country holds a "well-nigh unbeatable" hand.

Noting that the United States has disavowed preventive war, he said the only hope of an aggressor would be to knock out this country's power of atomic retaliation in a surprise blitz.

But he said new navy jet seaplanes, guided missile ships and nuclear submarines, added to the navy's present force of aircraft carriers, provided a system of "moving bases" which an enemy could not destroy promptly.

These offensive weapons, together with fixed air bases, "make our retaliation system well-rounded and versatile," he said. "It becomes impossible for any enemy to destroy or neutralize our reprisal system in a blitz attack."

Thomas indicated that nuclear submarines, such as the Nautilus now undergoing sea tests, may be equipped with guided missiles and used eventually as offensive weapons. He said:

"The guided missile ship, be it a surface ship or the nuclear submarine with its almost unlimited range, can appear over the horizon or emerge from the depths of the ocean, and as a firing platform send missiles of great destruction great distances with deadly accuracy."

He said use of jet power "and eventually nuclear power" for navy seaplanes "unfolds an unlimited realm for naval aviation."

"The seaplane can now be built to any size, its speed and altitude performance can be made to equal its landplane counterpart," he said. "It can carry heavy loads over long distances. It can be designed for refueling at sea.

". . . The oceans and seas will be its bases. These water fields will cost nothing, they will require little maintenance and their use will pose no problems of soyereignty. Using 75 per cent of the earth's surface which is water, and carrying destructive loads, elusive seaplanes can be an additional deterrent to an aggressor."

Thomas said that while the prospect of a nuclear war is "horrible," the best chance of preventing one is by being prepared for it.

"We must, then, be ever ready for an unwanted nuclear war—we must be mentally conditioned not to shrink from it, and we must be physically prepared for it . . ."

SHE PLAYED IN $1,000 GOWN

Lady Docker Wins Marbles Title From Laundry Worker

CASTLEFORD, Eng. (UP) — Fun-loving Lady Docker won a marble shooting world championship Thursday night while kneeling on a gold satin cushion so she would not dirty her $1,000 peacock blue ball gown studded with diamonds and emeralds.

She drove to this Yokshire factory town just below the Scottish border in her gold-plated Daimler limousine and took on 10 factory girls wearing frilly dresses for the occasion. She won seven matches, drew one and lost two.

Her victory was proclaimed a world championship by the hundreds who had flocked into Castleford for the charity match because there had never been anything like it. She confirmed it by trouncing Pauline Phillip, a 17-year-old laundry worker, in a playoff.

She gave Miss Phillips a gold trophy for her skill, but kept a silver one to remind herself of the championship.

The match was held despite the protests of the marbles board of control which denounced her for shooting marbles on television and for holding a match involving women when it considers marbles a game for men. It also denounced her for playing in Yorkshire when the board considers Sussex the centre of the game.

V's, Russians Set for Final

Canada Clobbers Germans; Soviet Whips Swiss 7-2

Canada 10, Germany 1
Russia 7, Switzerland 2
United States 6, Poland 2

COLOGNE (CP)—Canada's undefeated Penticton V's whipped Germany 10-1 today for their seventh-straight victory in the World Hockey Championships.

Russia, also undefeated in seven games, trimmed Switzerland, 7-2. In the day's third game United States beat Poland, 6-2.

Canada skated at half-speed while handily defeating the Germans, winner of only one game in seven so far. V's led 3-0 at the end of the first, outscored the Germans 4-1 in the second and added another three goals in the final frame.

In preparation for Sunday's final against the Russians playing coach Grant Warwick of the V's today requested newsmen to leave the team alone Saturday.

"We want to relax," he said.

Saturday night the V's will attend an English speaking movie, as guests of the British.

More than 9,000 will jam the rink for the Canada vs. Russia clash with a Canadian cheering section of 1,000 of Canada's army and air force making up a sizable rooting section for the V's.

Tonight the V's sent the following message to the folks back home: "We'll give everything we've got—and we'll bring that championship back to Canada."

Today members of the V's received a 58-page good luck cable from well-wishers in their home town.

However, the actual starting time of the game is 8 a.m., Victoria time, and the play-by-play broadcast to be carried over the Trans-Canada network of the CBC will be delayed.

Foster Hewitt, Toronto's well-known commentator, will air the contest direct from Krefeld, Germany, scene of the game which in all likelihood will decide the world championship.

TAIPEI (UP)—A sneak attack by 40 Red Chinese gunboats and motorized junks attempted on Kaoteng Island in the Matsu group late this afternoon was beaten off in a 25-minute battle.

TAPEI (UP) — The Chinese Nationalist Government was under sharp attack by its lawmakers today for failing to win from U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles a clear pledge to help defend Quemoy, Matsu and other offshore islands.

Legislators criticized the Dulles statement on these islands as "very vague," and Deputy Premier Huang Shaokuo said "from our standpoint Quemoy, Kinnen and Matsu form an integral part of the Republic of China's territory. . . . These are the bases for launching our counter-attacks."

In the wake of Dulles' departure there was an atmosphere of gloom and fears were expressed that the offshore islands may be sacrificed in a cease-fire deal.

Middle East Crisis Before UN Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The United Nations security council met in emergency session today to consider the threat to the peace of the Middle East posed by Monday's bloody clash of Israel and Egyptian troops in the Gaza border area of Egypt. Even as the UN met Egypt massed new troops on the troubled border.

The United States, Britain and France entered the meeting determined to prove the council's power to preserve the peace in Palestine which has been questioned by Egypt.

The western powers have taken a most serious view of the clash in which 39 Egyptians and eight Israeli Nationals were killed. Their most important concern is to eliminate the dangerous situation in which the hostile neighbors have both declared their intention to settle issues with force.

Drew Secretary Dies

OTTAWA (CP) — James F. Cassidy, 51, private secretary to Hon. George Drew for 19 years, died suddenly Thursday of a heart attack.

Faure Faces Crisis On Pay-Raise Issue

PARIS (UP) — The finance committee handed Premier Edgar Faure a setback by rejecting a pay-raise measure he had advocated.

Faure's new government faces its first serious parliamentary hurdle on the issue.

The committee refused by a 19 to 10 vote to approve the sum he had proposed for pay raises to the politically-strong civil servants. The committee described the sum as insufficient.

NEW ASPECT ON KAISER DAM DEAL?

Ottawa Surveyors Find Way To Join Columbia, Fraser Rivers

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Engineers have found gaps and passes which will make it physically possible to divert water from the upper Columbia River into the Fraser River system in British Columbia, it was learned here Friday from informed sources.

The preliminary engineering studies have disclosed that it will be possible to divert flood flows of the Columbia River above Revelstoke down the Eagle River, through Shuswap Lake and South Thompson River to join the Fraser River at Lytton.

The findings of these studies are reported to be the "remarkable new information on Columbia River development" referred to by Gen. A. G. MacNaughton, chairman of the International Joint Commission in his request to the British Columbia government to hold up the Kaiser dam deal.

Gen. MacNaughton is scheduled to make a detailed report on the results of the engineering studies to the parliamentary committee on external affairs next Wednesday. (See story on Page 2 about B.C. attendance at this committee's hearings on Ottawa's new water-export legislation.)

Source close to the International Joint Commission said here that the report by Gen. MacNaughton is of vital importance for British Columbia. It is estimated that several billion kilowatt hours of additional power could be produced annually as a result of such a diversion. Decision to make the diversion will depend upon the final findings of an economic survey due to be undertaken this summer.

VICTORIA STUDENTS are playing important roles in planning the University of British Columbia's "Open House," set for Saturday on the Vancouver campus. Student committee members include Allan Thackray, left, 2358 Heron, traffic chairman; Francis Appleton, 2149 Lansdowne Road, secretary, and Walter Young, 2527 Thompson Avenue, vice-chairman.

GROUND POPPING OPEN

Fiery Lava Runs Wild; Doomed Village Cleared

PAHOA, Hawaii (AP) — Twenty square miles of the volcano-wracked Puna district was evacuated hurriedly on Thursday night when the earth began popping open like a lot of punctured balloons.

Police said "everyone got out" of the area which encircles the abandoned and possibly doomed Kapoho village.

The area, shaken by earthquakes and splattered by spouting lava since Monday, began exploding open again Thursday night. It was clear of humans in two hours.

No one is being allowed to re-enter the area.

Richard Lyman, one of the Kapoho village officials who beat a hasty retreat, said "we were standing on a powder keg."

An hour before the countryside split asunder a livid glow lit up the night sky. Molten fountains fed the steaming river of lava, 10 feet deep and 300 yards across, as it inched with increasing momentum toward the ocean.

3-Fingered Man Freed as Suspect

TORONTO (BUP) — Police hunting for an eight-year-old girl missing for a week said today a mysterious, three-fingered man believed to have been seen with her had been found and cleared of suspicion.

It turned out that the suspect did have two fingers missing from one hand, and freely admitted eating out with a child. But she was his daughter and looked nothing like missing Judy Carter.

Negro Pays With Life For 5-Cent Robbery

PARCHMAN, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's new lethal gas chamber claims its second victim today when Allen Donaldson, a Louisana Negro, is executed for robbing a white woman.

Donaldson beat the woman and fled with her purse. It contained one nickel.

The woman recovered.

Victorians Rank High On UBC Honors List

(This is University Week in British Columbia. It will close on Saturday with an "open house" at the big, sprawling campus on Point Grey outside Vancouver. Because of the importance in our provincial life of the university, with which Victoria College is allied, the Times sent reporter Ab Kent to Vancouver to do a series telling what it means to us. Kent is himself a UBC graduate. His third article today tells of Victoria and Vancouver Island's part in life at the university.

By AB KENT, Times Staff Reporter

Victoria and Vancouver Island can be proud of the part they play in life at the University of British Columbia, whose enrollment is swelled by nearly 600 students—10 per cent of the 5,800 total—listing Island points as their homes.

Victorians alone make up half of these and include 25 graduates of Victoria College, the only B.C. institute of higher learning apart from UBC, with which it is affiliated.

The pride should go deeper than that, however, for scholastically speaking, Vancouver Island and Victoria College have produced some of the recognized educators and leaders of today through advanced training at UBC.

City Man, 64, Fatally Hurt Crossing Street

Second Traffic Fatality of Year

Inquest into the death of a 64-year-old city man fatally injured Thursday night when struck by a car while crossing Hillside Avenue has been set for Monday at 10.30 a.m. at McCall Bros. Funeral Parlor.

Dead is William H. S. Glew, 64, of 1501 Oakland Avenue.

Mr. Glew was hit while crossing Hillside east of Gosworth shortly after 7.30 p.m. He was pronounced dead at Royal Jubilee Hospital at about 8 p.m.

W. H. S. Glew

City police identified driver of the car as Robert John Bull, 18-year-old former car jockey, who resides at 728 Pine Street.

Mr. Glew is the second traffic fatality recorded in the city this year and the third in the Greater Victoria area.

First city traffic victim was John T. Gawthrop, 60, 1115 Leonard Street. He died four days after an accident January 12 at Hillside and Blackwood Streets.

James Matthew Lamont, 20, of 545 Agnes, was killed in a car crash January 9 at the intersection of Jedburgh Road and the old Island Highway in View Royal.

Police said Bull was driving east on Hillside when the Thursday night accident occurred. Mr. Glew, they said, was crossing Hillside from north to south on his way to a

Mid-20's Overnight; High 30's Saturday

A burst of warm air from the Pacific Ocean is slated to drive "winter" back to the mainland on the week-end, weatherman William Mackie forecast today.

Although the spell of Arctic weather was short, it succeeded in establishing an all-time low temperature for March. The mercury dropped to 19.3 degrees overnight, Mr. Makie said, to eclipse the previous March low of 21.2 degrees, set in 1906.

First sign of the impending warm weather will be increasing cloud tonight that will keep temperatures in the mid-20s. It will be followed by more cloud and rising temperatures Saturday, and the strong likelihood of wet snow and rain Sunday, especially at higher levels.

38 SATURDAY

Mid-morning temperature today was 26 degrees, despite brilliant sunshine, and the expected high Saturday will be 38 to 40 degrees.

The expected warm weather will be a boon to local daffodil growers, who come close to missing the Easter demand in Canada's eastern markets.

"Even now we will need a record warm spell if we are to catch the market 100 per cent," said William Mattick, well-known Cordova Bay grower. "The bulk of our sale is in the week prior to Easter, and we were picking at this time last year.'

The annual daffodil "crop" amounts to about 500,000 to 600,000 dozen, Mr. Mattick said.

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia registered some of the lowest temperatures in Canada overnight as the province froze under the lowest March readings in its history.

Coldest was 70-mile House in the Cariboo district, which registered 40 below. Quesnel, in the same area, recorded 36 below. Prince George, farther north, was next with a reading of minus 34.

In Vancouver, the red line dropped to 14.9 degrees above in official thermometers, slightly below the previous low for the month—15 above zero, set March 10, 1951.

Unofficial readings taken in outlying districts went as low as nine above.

HAPPY DAY IN LONDON; SUN SHINES

LONDON (CP)—It wouldn't be news in a lot of places, but the astonishing fact in Britain, recorded with black, fat headlines, is that the sun was shining today.

Editors wrote poems, and a headline in The Evening news said "it's wonderful to open the windows." The Thames, it was reported, "sparkled with unwonted beauty" and there wasn't any fog worth mentioning.

The temperature in London was 47 above.

City Navy PO Denies He Knew Drink Poison

HALIFAX (CP)—A petty officer admitted at his court martial today that he drank poisoned duplicating machine fluid aboard the carrier Magnificent, Jan. 31, but said he thought it was surgical alcohol.

Taking the stand in his own defense, PO. Maynard Johnson of Victoria, said also that he gave a drink to a messmate but wouldn't have if he had known its contents.

Johnson is being tried on two charges: That he drank an intoxicant aboard ship and that he furnished a drink to another sailor, thereby causing illness.

The court martial, the second as a result of the poison punch drinking spree that sent 47 men to hospital, adjourned until later today to hear the summing up of the judge advocate, who was to review the law and evidence for the benefit of the court.

Some of the men were in danger of death or permanent injury for a time but all recovered. (See story page 6.)

2 Vancouver Skidroad Killings; Teener Stabbed; More Stick-Ups

VANCOUVER (CP) — One man was charged with murder today and four others were held following two overnight killings in the skid road area here.

Violence flared in a new upsurge of crime as a 15-year-old boy was stabbed and four teenagers and two gunmen staged holdups.

M. Lizotte, 27-year-old unemployed logger, died in an east end hotel after he was slashed in the neck with a broken wine bottle. Charged with his murder is Joseph Roy, 32, unemployed stonecutter. Two other men are held as material witnesses.

Two suspects were detained for investigation after a man plunged three stories down the stairwell of a rooming house in the same area. The victim, about 35, died soon after admittance to hospital.

HEARD LOUD ARGUMENT

Tenants told police they heard a loud argument and scuffling in the hallway before the fall.

Police said a 29-year-old painter and a 44-year-old seaman whom they arrested appeared intoxicated and were given a drunkometer test.

A 15-year-old boy was treated for knife wounds in the thigh early today. He told police he got into an argument with three other youths, all about 16, and one attacked him with a spring knife.

CROSSWORDERS SIGHT ON TARGET OF $400

Total prize for The Times Crossword Puzzle No. 102 climbs to $400 this week since no correct entry was received for Puzzle No. 101.

"Sires" was one word that stumped most entrants last week. The clue said "Some well-known sportsmen in current sport may possibly favor certain ——— over others."

Most contestants gave "sizes" or "sides" as the answer. But the clue said "may possibly" and sportsmen will most certainly favor certain sides over others in various team sports. However, only those interested in horse racing or breeding will interest themselves in "sires" which fits the clue "may possibly."

First Contract Let On New Marpole Span

A $3,450,482 contract was let today for construction of the sub-structure of a new Marpole bridge, a four-lane span across the North Arm of the Fraser River.

Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi said the B.C. Toll Authority has accepted the tender of Gilpin Construction Co., and work will start immediately.

A separate contract will be let for the super-structure.

Construction is expected to take two years.

Total cost of the long-awaited span is expected to be about $8,000,000.

"I'm hoping the old bridge will hang together until we finish the new bridge," Mr. Gaglardi said.

OAK STREET

The bridge will cross the Fraser at the foot of Oak Street, across to Lulu Island. A second bridge is planned between Lulu Island and Sea Island, on which the airport is based.

It will be a toll bridge, unless the federal government and Vancouver city change their minds and decide to contribute one-third of the total expenditure.

LADNER, B.C. (CP) — The provincial government is expecting a report "within a few days" on a proposed tunnel under the South Arm of the Fraser River, Einar Gunderson said here.

Mr. Gunderson, financial adviser to the Social Credit government and former B.C. finance minister, delivered the message from Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi to the Lower Fraser River Crossing Improvement Association annual dinner.

The report, he said, was being prepared by some of North America's top tunnel engineers.

"The government isn't fooling about the proposed tunnel."

V's Smother Germany 10-1

Canada 10, Germany 1
Russia 7, Switzerland 2
United States 6, Poland 2

COLOGNE (UP)—The Penticton V's went through their final "workout" prior to their climactic meeting with Russia by walloping Germany, 10-1, today for their seventh straight victory in the world hockey championships.

Meanwhile, at Krefeld, the defending champion Russians also swept to their seventh consecutive victory by beating Switzerland, 7-2. Canada and Russia both will take the day off Saturday, prior to their showdown on Sunday for the world title.

Jack McIntyre, Mike Shebaga and Jack McDonald each scored two goals to lead the Canadians, as the Warwick brothers took matters easy against the hapless home team.

REINFORCEMENTS SCORE

Grant Warwick was the only Warwick brother who scored today, with Jack Taggart and Jim Middleton, the two Canadian reinforcements, each contributing one. Doug Kilburn scored the other V's goal.

It took the V's nearly 11 minutes to score their first goal and that was somewhat of a fluke. McIntyre picked up a loose puck after it had bounced off three German defenders and slapped it home. Grant Warwick's screen shot found the nets at 13.40 and McDonald made it 3-0 on a pass from Dick less than one minute later.

Taggart added a Canadian goal in the fifth minute of the second period, just before Hermann Huber produced Germany's lone tally on a solo rush. The V's retaliated with a goal in less than two minutes and added two more before the period ended for a 7-1 lead.

The final period was a romp, just as so many previous Canadian triumphs in this tournament. Ivan McLelland had to make only 12 saves during the game.

Champion Letter Writer?

Bride of seven months, Mrs. Katherine Parent, 3478 Bethune, writes average of 10 letters a day to hubby L/S John Parent, serving aboard HMCS Ontario on training cruise "down under." John got 36 letters at Pearl Harbor, 50 at Suva, and letters keep piling up. What does Mrs. Parent find to write about? That's her secret—and John's. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

Freezing Weather Will End Tonight

Victorians Will Enjoy Temperature In High 30s Saturday, Says Mackie

A burst of warm air from the Pacific Ocean is slated to drive "winter" back to the mainland on the week-end, weatherman William Mackie forecast today.

Although the spell of Arctic weather was short, it succeeded in establishing an all-time low temperature for March. The mercury dropped to 19.3 degrees overnight, Mr. Mackie said, to eclipse the previous March low of 21.2 degrees, set in 1906.

First sign of the impending warm weather will be increasing cloud tonight that will keep temperatures in the mid-20s. It will be followed by more cloud and rising temperatures Saturday, and the strong likelihood of wet snow and rain Sunday, especially at higher levels.

Mid-morning temperature today was 26 degrees, despite brilliant sunshine, and the expected high Saturday will be 38 to 40 degrees.

The expected warm weather will be a boon to local daffodil growers, who now are close to missing the Easter demand in Canada's eastern markets.

"Even now we will need a record warm spell if we are to catch the market 100 per cent," said William Mattick, well-known Cordova Bay grower. "The bulk of our sale is in the week prior to Easter, and we were picking at this time last year."

Feller tells me they got a new name fer Weatherman Mackie—th' Abominable Snowman.

City Navy PO Did Not Know Drink Contents

HALIFAX (CP)—A petty officer admitted at his court martial today that he drank poisoned duplicating machine fluid aboard the carrier Magnificent, Jan. 31, but said he thought it was surgical alcohol.

Taking the stand in his own defense, PO. Maynard Johnson of Victoria, said also that he gave a drink to a messmate but wouldn't have if he had known its contents.

Johnson is being tried on two charges: That he drank an intoxicant aboard ship and that he furnished a drink to another sailor, thereby causing illness.

Body Identified

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP today identified the body of a woman found aboard a grounded fishboat at Bowen Island a week ago as Mary Claire Howard, 35, of Vancouver.

Buttle Dam Dropped But Lake To Be Raised

The B.C. Power Commission, under authorization of the government, has decided not to dam famous Buttle Lake on Vancouver Island, but will carry out a huge $19,000,000 dam and hydro project on Upper Campbell Lake to meet the rapidly-growing power needs of Vancouver Island.

This was announced in the Legislature this afternoon by Premier W. A. C. Bennett, who said the power commission has been given the go-ahead on the scheme.

While Buttle Lake, as such, will not be dammed, the ultimate stage of the Upper Campbell scheme will eventually raise the water level in Buttle Lake by 15 feet above present high water level.

Upper Campbell is the next lake below Buttle Lake in the system which makes up the Campbell River watershed. There are already two dams on the system, one at Ladore Falls and one at Irene Pool, as parts of the John Hart power development.

Giant Job in Two Stages

The giant project will be completed in two stages:

1. Construction of a $9,000,000 dam two miles below the outlet of Upper Campbell Lake to raise the lake level 79 feet. This will provide storage to "firm up the capacity of generating plants of the John Hart Development.

The dam is expected to be sufficiently advanced by November, 1956, to permit storage of water.

It will be fully completed by the following spring.

2. In 1958, the dam will be enlarged to raise Upper Campbell Lake another 30 feet. At the same time power generating units will be installed at the dam site to generate 70,000 horsepower.

This stage will cost $10,000,000.

The second stage of the development will cause flooding upstream into Buttle Lake. It will raise Buttle 15 feet over its normal high level.

A huge lake about 30 miles long will form behind the Upper Campbell dam, reaching to the head of Buttle.

Conservationists in Long Battle

Today's announcement brings to an end a 3½-year fight by conservationists over the damming of Buttle Lake, which is mostly contained in famous Strathcona Park.

There have been probes and hearings, delays and surveys at repeated intervals during that period.

While the "don't dam Buttle" faction has won a partial victory, the announcement today pointed out that the final stage of the scheme will still raise the level of Buttle Lake, and, of course, flood part of the shore line.

The reason the commission decided on the Upper Campbell storage dam and scrapping of the original proposal of damming Buttle first is the result of highly accelerated power demands on Vancouver Island.

When Buttle Lake was first proposed four years ago, it was anticipated that storage would be required for the period from 1953 to 1960. At that time it was estimated power generating facilities at Upper Campbell would not be required until 1960.

Major expansion of secondary forest industries have advanced requirements for both additional storage and generating capacity to about 1958.

Most Economic Development

Premier Bennett said the program is the most economic method of "further developing Campbell River in the light of costs and conditions."

He said fisheries and recreational features have been given due consideration in the Campbell River scheme.

The premier said the increase in electric power loads on the Island is such that the peak demand predicted five years ago as likely to occur in January, 1957, "actually was reached last December—more than two years sooner than had been expected in the 1950 studies."

Demand on the John Hart plant at Campbell River has more than quadrupled in the past five years, he said.

In the winter of 1949-50 it was about 28,800 kilowatts. This winter the demand reached 119,800 kilowatts, virtually the entire 120,000 kilowatt capacity of the plant.

Threat of a brown-out hung over Vancouver Island throughout the winter.

Commission crews Monday are scheduled to rip out the outlet of Buttle Lake to drain 60,000 acre-feet to boost the dwindling reserve of the John Hart plant.

This emergency measure was announced earlier this week.

Victorians Rank High On UBC Honors List

(This is University Week in British Columbia. It will close on Saturday with an "open house" at the big, sprawling campus on Point Grey outside Vancouver. Because of the importance in our provincial life of the university, with which Victoria College is allied, the Times sent reporter Ab Kent to Vancouver to do a series telling what it means to us. Kent is himself a UBC graduate. His third article today tells of Victoria and Vancouver Island's part in life at the university.

By AB KENT, Times Staff Reporter

Victoria and Vancouver Island can be proud of the part they play in life at the University of British Columbia, whose enrollment is swelled by nearly 600 students—10 per cent of the 5,800 total—listing Island points as their homes.

Victorians alone make up half of these and include 25 graduates of Victoria College, the only B.C. institute of higher learning apart from UBC, with which it is affiliated.

The pride should go deeper than that, however, for scholastically speaking, Vancouver Island and Victoria College have produced some of the recognized educators and leaders of today through advanced training at UBC.
